WHEN MEN HAVE WORK WHY VOTE FOR A CHANGE?

WEDDING BELLS TO TURN TRICK

William E. Lingenfelder And Others
in Bigamy Tangle Will Get
Divorce and Remarry.

HE FILES SUIT HERE TODAY

Will Pass as Sloan Until he Gets Decree and Then Begin Over Again
as Lingenfelder.

More wedding bells will disentangle the three-cornered bigamy case in Indianapolis in which William E. Lingenfelder, alias Edward Sloan, of this city, is involved. All are to escape punishment with the exception of George Isaacs, of Indianapolis, who yesterday was sentenced to the work house in Indianapolis until his first wife divorces him and Lingenfelder divorces his first wife, the present Mrs. Isaacs.

The first step in the divorcing and remarrying of the four people involved was taken here today when Lingenfelder brought suit for a divorce from his first wife, who has given birth to four children by Isaacs but who swore in court that she had never been married to Isaacs in order to escape being prosecuted for bigamy.

The divorce complaint by Lingenfelder says that he and his first wife were married in Jeffersonville, Ind., June 4, 1893. He makes a serious charge against her in regard to her relations with George Isaacs, who was a boarder at their home when they resided in Indianapolis.

The complaint states that Mrs. Lingenfelder abandoned her husband January 3, 1905, after having lived with him little more than 11 years. The Indianapolis Star says today that three months after Isaacs came to board at the Lingenfelder's home, Mrs. Myrtle Lingenfelder left her husband and went to live with Isaacs. They have been living together ever since.

Lingenfelder's divorce suit will probably come up next term of court, which opens in a few weeks. Lingenfelder says that he will live under his assumed name, Edward Sloan, which name he has used during his seven years' residence here, until his divorce is procured. Then he declares he will remarry his present wife under his real name and will be known by that name henceforth.

No one holds Lingenfelder responsible for his part in the bigamy tangle. The police court judge in Indianapolis did not hold him responsible else he would have ordered him prosecuted. When Mrs. Myrtle Lingenfelder abandoned him and went to live with Isaacs, he naturally supposed they were married.

The three-cornered mix-up was discovered when Mrs. Lola Isaacs of Columbus, O., went to Indianapolis last week to file suit against her husband in order to recover a sum of money and found that he had been married again. This revelation brought out the fact that Isaacs second wife had never been divorced from her first husband, Lingenfelder, who also had married again.

Mrs. Isaacs has returned to Columbus and will apply for divorce at once. Due to the law in Ohio, she can not get a decree of separation in less than ninety days. So Isaacs will have at least that time to serve in the Indianapolis workhouse.

Isaacs was sent to the workhouse

TRAIN ALMOST HIT AUTO

Dr. R. T. Blount Has Close Call in Main Street.

Dr. R. T. Blount narrowly escaped being hit by the north bound Pennsylvania passenger train last evening at the Main street crossing. Dr. Blount was driving north in his automobile and failed to see the train until it was almost upon him. He was on the crossing and in order to avoid being hit, angled towards the sidewalk and drove the machine on the lawn at the home of Robert Hiner. His presence of mind probably saved his life for the machine would have been hit had he gone straight across in front of the train.

SPRING MEETING TO BE AT HAMILTON

Dr. James E. Morris of Liberty Elected President of Union District
Medical Society.

Hamilton, Ohio, was selected as the place for the next regular spring meeting of the Union District Medical Society, which closed its fall session here late yesterday. There was no opposition to the selection.

Dr. James E. Morris of Liberty was elected president to succeed Dr. P. M. Sater of Hamilton, O., the retiring official. Dr. Morris was the first charter member of the society and is the oldest member. Dr. Franklin T. DuBois of Liberty was elected vice-president and Dr. David W. Stevenson of Richmond, secretary.

The thirty-five visiting physicians were profuse in their praise of the local doctors for the entertainment received here. The program was carried out in full yesterday afternoon.

SIMMEN SYSTEM TO BE INSTALLED

Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction
Company Will Abide by Order
of Railroad Commission.

18 MILES ALREADY EQUIPPED

The Railroad Commission of Indiana issued orders yesterday for the installation of automatic block signals on nine interurban lines including the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company. The I. & C. will use the Simmen system on its two divisions. The cost of installing the automatic blocks is approximately $1,000 a mile.

The commission heretofore has approved the installation of the Simmen system on eighteen miles of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company. The system is used on the Greensburg division between the junction and Shelbyville. The order of the commission means that the entire system will be equipped with the Simmen block. The orders were issued under the block signal act passed by the recent General Assembly and the signals are to be in operation by July, 1913.

CASE HEARD HERE TWICE IS ENDED

Verdict of $2000 is Returned in Wolf
Damage Suit After Five
Trials.

JURY DISAGREES FOUR TIMES

First Hearing Held Seven Years Ago
in Columbus—Finish is There, Too.

A litigation which has continued intermittently for seven years came to an end when a jury at Columbus Thursday afternoon gave a verdict to Fred Wolf, plaintiff in the celebrated Wolf case, for $2,000.

The Wolfe case is famous because it has been tried five times—twice at Rushville and three times at Columbus. In each of the four former trials the juries disagreed. In this respect the case holds a unique place in legal history. He says that old lawyers have told him they never heard of four disagreements in one case.

Burney Wolf was a resident of Greensburg and died as the result of injuries sustained while coupling cars on a Big Four freight at Valley Junction, Ohio, about five years ago. The case was filed in the Decatur Circuit Court and was taken from there to Rush county on a change of venue. It was tried twice there and the jury disagreed each time. The case was then taken to Anderson on a change of venue and was tried twice, the jury failing to agree each time.

The father brought suit for $10,000 against the company, alleging that the accident was the result of a wrong signal given by the conductor of the train.

The case was tried before Special Judge W. Donaker in Columbus, having been begun on the last day of the September term, and was then continued in vacation until its conclusion. It is reported that attorneys for the plaintiff, Wolf, offered to compromise the case for $500.

In addition to agreeing upon a general verdict the jury had to answer fifty-eight interrogatories submitted by attorneys for the railroad company. After the verdict was read Clerk Cox was required to read the interrogatories and the answers the jury gave to each question.

The jury in the present trial retired at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The twelve men balloted all night without reaching a verdict. About 10 o'clock Thursday morning they asked to be re-instructed and Judge Donaker read the instructions a second time. The jury then retired and reached a verdict at 1:30.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Muncie Press: The Chicago Tribune is exceedingly severe in its strictures upon John M. Harlan and Adam Bede for their alleged abusiveness during the present campaign, but it does not go so far as to accuse these men of calling the Tribune's candidate for governor of Illinois the present executive of that state, a "scoundrel and a falsifier," although we believe some self restrained and mild spoken statesman did something of that sort at Chicago this week.

Mrs. Will Jones entertained the employees of the Davis-Jones millinery store with an oyster supper last evening at her home south of the city.

RECEPTION AND AIR BOTH CHILLY

But Thomas Duncan Puts Most
Scholarly Effort of Local Campaign Across Footlights.

IT IS SAFE AND SANE SPEECH

Crowd of Less Than Hundred People Gathers to Hear Democratic Principles Explained.

Seventy-one men, six women and five boys—which did not include the Homer glee club of six members, County Chairman, Sam Trabue and the speaker, all of whom sat on the platform—heard Thomas Duncan of Princeton, once Democratic candidate for congress, deliver—or rather read—a speech at the Coliseum last evening. It was about the most scholarly effort that has been out across the footlights at the Coliseum during this campaign.

Although the air was chilly and the crowd so small that it offered no inspiration to the orator for the occasion, Mr. Duncan stayed with his speech for an hour and a half, and then cut it short and quit. The speech showed the fruits of great preparation and long study. Every sentence was properly constructed, each thought hinged on something suggested in its predecessor. The rhetoric, the grammar, the enunciation and everything, with the exception of that which makes a campaign speech—oratorical ability—was there.

Slowly, but surely, stepping tediously, Mr. Duncan read his perfectly safe and sane argument for Democracy from his manuscript lying before him on a box. It was so much like a college professor's lecture on economies in a college class room. The audience paid attention, but there was no enthusiasm aroused, no spirited applause evoked. It will stand unique in the history of campaigns in Rushville as a perfectly safe and sane undamaging political oration.

"I am an optimist," said Mr. Duncan at the outset, and then he plunged into a lot of high-flown language to prove it. "While we are contending with much heat—not very much here this evening, however—about the political issues of the day, we will find, in the end, that the American people have worked out the great questions to their own satisfaction."

"We are expecting too much of government," continued Mr. Duncan. Prosperity and content must come from individual effort."

In glowing terms Mr. Duncan pictured the great prosperity of the nation its natural resources, and recalled that its inhabitants are a most intelligent people. He asserted that no form of government could prevent this people from thriving, and that the present prosperity is not the result of Republican legislation but of the wonderful environment and the heritage of the race.

He read from the Republican platform in 1908 wherein Roosevelt was copiously praised. He pointed out that no man was ever so gloriously eulogized, and then recalled that the 1912 platform reiterated the clause concerning Roosevelt in the 1908 platform.

He recalled that Roosevelt, when he retired from the presidency, stated that Taft was pre-eminently fitted for the highest office in the land, and

COLOR MAN INDICTED

Alvin Saddler, Who Was Captured Near Milroy, Held to Court.

Alvin Saddler, colored, of Shelbyville, who was caught in the vicinity of Milroy, after a spirited pursuit, Monday, September 30, yesterday was indicted by the Shelby county grand jury for shooting with intent to kill. He shot Leonard Johnson, another Shelbyville negro, with a .44 calibre revolver, but escaped before the police arrived. He was chased into this county and caught along the road near Milroy.

MRS. ELLA KELLEY BEGINS LAST SLEEP

Wife of Street Commissioner John W. Kelley Passes Away After Long Illness.

FUNERAL MONDAY MORNING

Mrs. Ella Kelley, 51 years old, wife of John W. Kelley, city street commissioner, died this afternoon at 12:35 o'clock at her home in South Pearl street after a long illness from cancer. Mrs. Kelley had been ill for over a year and death was expected.

She was the daughter of Ambros Hilligoss and was born January 11, 1861. Deceased is survived by her husband and three children, Earl, of Shelbyville, Miss Pearl and Mrs. Omer Collier of this city. She also leaves four brothers, George Hilligoss of Orange township, Leander Hilligoss of Lebanon, Omer Hilligoss of Alexander, S. D., and Sullivan Hilligoss of Dallas, Tex., and three half-brothers, Oscar and Elmer Hilligoss of Indianapolis and Clayton Hilligoss of Tacoma, Wash., and one half-sister, Mrs. Ambria Gray of Muncie.

The funeral services will be held Monday morning at nine o'clock in the St. Mary's Catholic church. Burial will take place in Calvary cemetery.

BULL MOOSE WILL BE 4TH ON TICKET

Deputy Clerk Gets State Ballots in Indianapolis Today—Order on County Ballots Same.

COMMISSION MEETS TONIGHT

Birney D. Spradling, deputy clerk of the circuit court, went to Indianapolis this morning and returned with the State ballots for the coming national election. In the State ballots the tickets are arranged in the following order: Democratic, Republican, Prohibitionist, Progressive, Socialist and Socialist Labor. The State election commission instructed the clerk to have the county election commission observe the same order on the county ballots which will be printed here in a few days, with the exception that the last named ticket will not be on the county ballot.

The county election commission will meet tonight and make final arrangements for the printing of the county ballots.

Prospects for the big religious demonstration which will take place Saturday night brightened considerably today. Members of Dr. Biederwolf's party visited the factories and received assurances without exception that a delegation would come from every factory in the city.

A fine crowd was out last night to hear Dr. Biederwolf's sermon on "Born Again." It was a challenge to infidelity to reveal what it had done to make the world better, and a reiteration of the glories of the Christian faith. The sermon was in part as follows:

The Bible says: "The Bible says: 'God created man in His own image; in the image of God created He him.' That's the simple story of how man was ushered into the world. Some people say they don't believe it. Instead of saying, 'I believe in God the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth,' they say, 'I believe in the chaotic nebula, self-existent evolver of heaven and earth,' and instead of saying that God created man in His own image, they improve on the word of God by telling us that

ADMIRAL FELT RESPONSIBILITY

Commander of Czar's Yacht
Kills Himself.

ILLNESS OF THE CZAROVITCH

Injury to the Heir to the Throne of All the Russias Said to Have Been Due to a Fall While Playing About the Royal Yacht, the Old Commander of Which, Feeling His Responsibility in the Matter, Blows His Head Off.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—A sensation which was intensified when reports connected the admiral's act with the sickness of the czarovitch, was created by the suicide by shooting of Rear Admiral Chagin, commander of the czar's yacht, Standart. Chagin was a bachelor and lived in a flat here with two valets when not at sea. He had written letters to relatives and arranged his affairs in such a manner as to show that his suicide was as deliberate as that of General Nogi. When he had completed all his business he secured a loaded rifle, filled the barrel with water and fired at his head, which was almost completely blown away.

An unsealed note was found on his writing table, which read: "I ask that nobody be accused of my death."

Nothing is certainly known as to the reason for the admiral's suicide, but gossip, which has now abandoned the pony story, declares that the injury to the czarovitch was due to a fall which he sustained while climbing the spars of the Standart or otherwise playing on the royal yacht, and that Admiral Chagin was so overwhelmed with a sense of responsibility for the accident to the heir to the throne that he resolved to die.

Chagin was a favorite with the imperial family and was regarded as one of the ablest of the Russian naval commanders. He led the Russian Jackies at Pekin during the Boxer rebellion and commanded the cruiser Almaz at Tsushima, whence he safely took her to Vladivostok at the outbreak of the war with Japan.

Cause of Illness a Mystery.

The nature of the czar's son's sickness continues to be a mystery. The court suppresses everything about him except the physicians' bulletins. Loyal Russians are deeply concerned over the matter and are most eager for information, but are unable to learn anything except the rumors about his being thrown from his pony and falling from the spars of the royal yacht Standart, and other such stories. The czar, whose devotion to the boy is notorious, is reported to be so stricken that he is unable to attend to state business. It is stated unofficially that Prof. Feodoroff, who is attending the crown prince, on being adjured by the zarina to tell the whole truth, admitted that an attack of kidney disease had left one of the boy's kidneys seriously affected. The zarina fell in a faint on receiving this information, and shortly after she revived and went off in another fainting spell. The shock had the very worst effect on her feeble health, and she is now completely prostrated.

It is rumored that Chagin's suicide was due to a love affair. He believed he had been jilted by his sweetheart, but this proved to be a mistake. When the girl learned of the officer's suicide she cut her throat with a razor and fell dead.

BACK IN HARNESS

Colonel Roosevelt, Today Resumed His Routine Work.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Colonel Roosevelt today made his first move toward getting back into harness again. One of his secretaries was called in and they together tackled the past fortnight's accumulation of mail and telegrams. It is now certain, unless some new contingency arises, that the colonel will speak briefly at the meeting in Madison Square Garden next Tuesday night. It is likely that tomorrow his conferences here with his leaders will be in full swing once more.

The colonel surprised his household yesterday by dressing himself without assistance and walking into the dining room where the family was gathered, with a demand for breakfast. "I feel fine," he exclaimed with a grin; "bully, in fact; give me something to eat."

He was permitted to remain downstairs the greater part of the day, putting in his time in his library, where in the afternoon he had a nap. The colonel wore the knickerbocker suit in which he is accustomed to ride and play tennis, and he looked like his old self. He was without medical attendance save for a routine call for the purpose of taking the colonel's temperature. Those who are attending the ex-president express great amazement over the promptness with which he has recovered his strength.

Planned Wholesale Massacre. Larisa, Oct. 25.—The massacre by the Turks at Serfidje, or Servia, is reported to have been the beginning of what was intended to be the destruction of the whole Christian population. The near approach of the Greeks prevented this from being carried out. The victims of the massacre were all women and children.

SANTO DOMINGO IN REVOLUTION THROES

Island Republic Having More Trouble.

Washington, Oct. 25.—According to dispatches received at the state department, Dominican rebels have secured control over practically all of the province of Samana, on the north coast of the republic. It is said that the rebels have bombarded the town of Samana at the head of the bay. They have also captured Sanchez and Sabana De Mer. The naval transport Prairie with 750 marines aboard, has gone to Samana bay to investigate. The marines will be landed if necessary for the protection of American interests. The state department also learned that fighting has taken place in the streets of Puerto Plata. There have been many casualties in these skirmishes. A general attack upon the city by rebels is believed to have taken place by now, though the means of communication with Puerto Plata are so uncertain that nothing is known definitely beyond the fact that an attack was planned.

DIDN'T LAST LONG

City of Vera Cruz Rapidly Resuming Its Ordinary Aspect.

Washington, Oct. 25.—The city of Vera Cruz, the scene of the defeat of General Felix Diaz and the collapse of his insurrection, is fast resuming its normal aspect. Commander Hughes of the United States cruiser Des Moines cables that the port has been reopened to commerce and the city restored to order and normal conditions. Business is being resumed and police patrol of the city has been re-established. The Des Moines will remain at Vera Cruz for the present until the recent excitement has wholly died away.

Woman Will Defend Davidson.

New York, Oct. 25.—Miss Inez Milholland, who has been prominent in politics and suffrage for several years past, is about to be admitted to the bar. Miss Milholland, who is a Vassar graduate, already has been graduated from a law school. She now is devoting her time to preparing a defense of Davidson, who killed "Big Jack" Zelig, a witness in the Becker murder case.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 27.

WANDERINGS IN DECAPOLIS.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 7:31-3:10.
GOLDEN TEXT—"He hath done all things well: He maketh even the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak."—Mark 7:37 R. V.

Last week we saw our Lord in the region of Tyre and Sidon dealing with the Syrophenician woman. In v 31 (R. V.) we now see him journeying back towards the Sea of Galilee through the border of that section containing ten cities, for that is what the word Decapolis means.

1. JESUS THE HEALER (vv. 31-37). Jesus had gone north seeking rest but he "could not be hid," and now upon his return he continues to meet these sad cases which need healing, and who are brought to him by their intensely interested friends. Jesus does not need beseeching. He whose heart was touched with compassion is ready to hear the faintest cry.

This first section is rich with suggestions. Jesus takes the man apart suggesting the necessity for individual personal dealing with God. Men are not saved en masse but as separate individuals, it could not be otherwise and have a man retain his personality. To work any cure for our sins Jesus demands our individual attention. Then Jesus placed his fingers in the man's ears; suggesting the added emphasis that we must come into personal contact with God if we would be healed. We may stop to reason (Isa. 1:18) with him but our sins, that be as scarlet, will not be removed unless we come by personal, individual, experience under the blood, (Eph. 1:7).

"His blood avails for all our race,
His blood avails for me."

Moistening the man's tongue with his own saliva suggests that the source of healing is to be in Jesus' own person. Our salvation is not in the words he spoke, nor the life he lived, but the life he gave (Heb. 9:12-14).

Fellowship With God.

Jesus also looked to heaven, indicating that we must continue in fellowship with God, and also indicating his own fellowship with the father. Jesus sighed over the wreck of sin. The son of man came to bear our sorrows and to share our griefs. (Isa. 63:9). Attention has been called to the sighs and the tears of Jesus. If our prayers were more accompanied by tears and heartfelt sighs they would be more powerful. (cf. Romans 8:26). It is equally true that if our sighing were accompanied by more prayers we would accomplish more in his kingdom.

After these preliminary and suggestive acts Jesus spoke the one word "Ephphatha"—Be opened—and deaf ears were opened to words of praise and counsel and to the cry of distress. Loosed was the man's tongue to speak his word of personal testimony and to witness for his healer. Read Isaiah 32:14 and 35:4, 5.

II. JESUS THE PROVIDER (vv. 1-10, cf. Matt. 15:32-38.)

The tremendous stir Jesus caused is graphically suggested by Mark in verse one of this section. From far and near they had gathered and now at the end of the third day their small supply of food is exhausted. We are told by John (6:26, 27) why they had followed him, still they were deeply interested in him and considered him to be a prophet (John 6:14). Nevertheless Jesus was moved with a compassion then, even as now he is moved when he beholds us in our unworthiness.

No Hunger Too Great.

The compassion of Jesus is a very active principle, it does not consist of sighs and lamentations, or of investigations and condemnations of conditions. His compassion causes him to act. But the disciples are agast at his suggestion that he feed this multitude of "about four thousand." "Whence shall one be able to fill these men with bread" (R. V.)? On the other occasion Jesus had asked Philip, who lived in the near-by town of Bethsaida, where they might find bread; but now they are in a desert place. It may seem strange for the disciples to ask such a question. He had fed a larger number with smaller resources.

After taking stock (v. 5) Jesus commands the people to sit down. He received their seven loaves (v. 6) and brake and gave, first to the disciples, and through them to the people. Such as they had, first given to him, responding to his touch, was enough and to spare (v. 8). When we give him our all he will bless, multiply and use.

Our Golden Text (v. 37) is suggestive of a wide application in teaching this lesson. We have in this lesson two incidents as illustrations. In both we can see those principles that govern his life and ministry, viz., unvarying loyalty to God and unwearied compassion for poor, weak humanity. As has already been suggested, we also see that the methods of Jesus varied, according to the individual need and always with the unswerving purpose of glorifying God. The same lesson of careful conservation of what remained is taught as in the case of the feeding of the five thousand.

(4.) What is being done and what more can be done for the deaf and dumb of this country than we are doing?

(5.) Why did Jesus use such an elaborate process in curing this man when most of his other miracles were so simple?

(6.) Would you say that Jesus used these signs as the only way to convey to the patient what he was going to do for him? Why?

(7.) Why did Jesus perform this miracle in private when most of his other miracles were done in public?

(8.) Did Jesus perform this miracle by his own innate power or by the power of God in answer to his "looking up into heaven?"

(9.) Should we bring our sick ones to Jesus today in expectation that he will heal them or should we use the means to that end which God has given us in nature?

(10.) Verse 36—Which is the greater sinner, and why, he who tells things God wishes not to be made known or he who keeps to himself what he ought to publish abroad?

(11.) Why did Jesus want this miracle kept secret?

(12.) Disobedience always results in evil. What evil results probably came from this act of disobedience to Jesus' command?

(13.) Verse 37—If our historic vision of this miracle were as acute as that of the eyewitnesses what would our estimate of it be?

(14.) Mention if you can any word or act of Jesus which would prevent you from saying, "He hath done all things well."

(15.) What man in all history stirs today the most astonishment, and why is it so? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(16.) viii:14—What evidence is there that the feeding of the four thousand is not a variation of the account of the feeding of the five thousand?

(17.) What reason is there to suppose that Jesus sympathizes with those in need today as he did in that day?

(18.) Notwithstanding that God does not supply our needs now miraculously, does he supply them surely and may we absolutely trust him for the future? Why?

(19.) What class of people formed this multitude?

(20.) What shape does Christ's "compassion on the multitude" take today?

(21.) Is time spent in the service of Christ ever forgotten by him and is it ever profitless? Why?

(22.) Verse 5—What proof is there that our ability, our opportunity and our resources are ample for our full duty?

(23.) Verses 6-10—What are the advantages of system and order in both our sacred and secular matters?

(24.) What better is food after it has been "blessed" than before?

(25.) What are the evils of waste and the gain of economy?

Ibrahim the Ingenious.

Ibrahim, whose dusty history Dr. Hester Donaldson Jenkins of Columbia university has related in monograph, entitled "Ibrahim Pasha, Grand Vizier of Suleiman the Magnificent," was a child of destiny.

By birth a Greek, he rose from the estate of a slave to a position second only to that of the sultan himself, and the secret of his swift rise to power is subtly indicated by an isolated instance of his cleverness in playing upon his master's vanity. Soon after Suleiman's marriage the young sultan is said to have asked his grand vizier which of the two ceremonies was the finer, his own or Ibrahim's.

"There never has been a feast equal to my wedding," Ibrahim replied.

"Why?" asked the sultan, somewhat offended.

"Oh, my padishah," said Ibrahim, with intense modesty, "my wedding was honored by the presence of Suleiman, lord of the age, firm rampart of Islam, possessor of Mecca, lord of Damascus and Egypt, caliph of the lofty threshold and lord of the residence of the Pleiades, but to your festival who was there of equally exalted rank who might come?"

Eiffel Tower's Changes.

That the Eiffel tower moves daily vertically and horizontally has long been beyond doubt. It may be seen in a gale swaying from side to side. M. Guillaume has been investigating these movements and has given the results in a paper read before the Academy of Science. He finds that the great iron structure may vary from two to three centimeters in height every day. The elevation and depression are not equally distributed, as only one of its sides may be affected by the rise or fall of the temperature, and thus the tower may be compared to a person shifting his weight alternately from one foot to another. If a cloud covers the tower and hides the sun the temperature falls a few degrees and the tower diminishes, and when the sun shines again it rapidly rises a centimeter or two. But the bolts holding the frame together are affected only to an infinitesimal degree. Therefore there is no danger of any violent dislocation.—Exchange.

The Dog's Day.

Luckily for the human race, though styles come and go, mankind itself never goes out of fashion. Dogs are not so lucky. Every age has its preference for a particular breed of canine beauty. The greyhound, with his light, sketchy outlines, was in high favor during the reign of Louis XI., and the Great Dane, that had previously been the fashion, declined into a period of "nobody loves me." Danes became scarce and greyhounds plenty. But under Louis XV. the Dane "came back" and multiplied again. The king's dog wore a collar of gold set with diamonds. Following this, the Scotch terrier had his turn. Then the greyhound came back in favor. Charles VIII., Henry IV. and Louis XIII. loved their dogs so well that the dogs slept in the royal bedrooms.—New York Mail.

Taft Strength Growing.

Oswald F. Shuette, one of the most experienced and reliable newspaper correspondents in the country, who has just returned from a tour of the western states, says that the Roosevelt movement in the states west of the Mississippi is waning fast, and the Taft strength is growing. Roosevelt's western trip was a distinct disappointment, and left him weaker than when he started on the journey. Harlan and Bede, who are following the trail of the moose, got as big crowds as Roosevelt himself—in fact his meetings only helped his adversaries get a hearing that might otherwise have been denied them. The frantic efforts of the bull moose organs here in Indiana to make people think that the fight is between Roosevelt and Wilson is evidence that even our ancestors were common chimpanzees, and that God never made us at all. The whole thing started in a little infinitesimal speck of unexplainable something which grew and developed and changed until at last through certain differentiating processes it was finally rationalized and perfected into man, and if you want to trace your ancestry you must go back through all the countless years and see yourself in the chimpanzee, and the monkey, and farther back find your great grandparents in some amphibious froglike creature about 18 inches long and 6 wide, says Darwin, and then in some wriggling worm in the slime beds of stagnant pools and so on ad infinitum, ad nauseam, until you shake hands with your former self in the shape of this wonder insignificant so called primordial germ whose origin the Darwinians have never been able to discover and which I have an idea must be a mystery to God himself. Because you know it is that way. Huxley and Darwin said so.

The Democratic orator last night declared—and he talked like he meant it—that he is an optimist. Those are two things that are hard to reconcile, a Democrat and an optimist.

PROSPECTS FOR PARADE BRIGHTER

"Some fellow will dam up a little rivulet, pile up some dirt on either side and make an artificial lake and then swell up as though they had created the Pacific ocean. They will throw up a pile of brick and mortar, carve their names in stone and then blow as if they made the Rocky Mountains. First we had the candle, then we got the gas, Edison manufactured the electric lights, but to hear some people talk it won't be long till some one crawls up into the sky and blows the sun out.

"Every creature born into this world has a nature after its own kind. You can't train a bird to crawl for the same reason you can't train a snake to fly. True to his nature a caterpillar," but we say, the creature has been changed—it's got a new nature—it's been born again: it's a butterfly. The same thing is true of the natural and spiritual man.

"But you might as well try to lift yourself by pulling at your boot straps, as to try to generate within yourself that quality of life that will lift you into the Kingdom of God.

"There's a mighty difference between reformation and regeneration; some of the worst men on this side of hell are reformed men. I know a fellow who was once a drunken old bum, and he reformed and became the keeper of a brothel. He reformed again and became a gambler. He reformed again and became a gentleman of leisure. Once he rolled in the gutter, but now he sits in his diamond studded shirt and latest cut of clothes, on the piazza of a high class hotel. Quite a difference, you say. Yes. Reformation did it, but he's a child of the devil just the same and that's all there is to it.

"Some people try to make out that the thing a sinner needs is a change in surroundings, but if a man ain't got the heart in him to do right, he'll go wrong where ever you put him. If there's something wrong in the old clock that hangs on the wall, do you think you can make her go by taking her out in the barn and hanging her up there? No, you can't. The trouble is with the works, and you've got to go down into the nature of the thing and fix her up there, and that's the way it is with you. You're wrong in your works; that's what's the matter with you; you've got the devil in your and you'll do what the devil says, no matter if you change your environment a dozen times a year. It's not a new town you need, it's a new nature, and when you get that you'll be a Christian and do the will of God in one place as well as another.

"Listen: First, I John 5:10: 'He that is born of God hath the witness in himself.' If you are walking in newness of life and trying to keep yourself unspotted from the world, you'll know you are a child of God. You'll feel differently about God. You'll think of Him as your Father, instead of some far off supreme Being. You'll find it easy to believe in God's word and what it says about man's salvation, and you'll have a conviction about the matter that will bring you peace.

"Second, I John 5:10: 'Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ, is born of God.'

"You say I believe that; but how do you believe it? Do you give mere intellectual assent to it, or do you believe it with your heart? The devil believed the other way; he was so orthodox that he trembled. But have you confessed Jesus as your Christ? If you really believe a thing in your heart, don't you think you would confess it with your mouth? If you believed in Jesus as your Christ, you'd take Him wherever you go, introduce Him to your friends, and you'd be proud to bear His name.

"Third, I John 3:15: 'We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren.'

"But if you're born of God you'll love each other. You Episcopalians will love the Methodists, and you Methodists will love the Episcopalians and the Baptists and all the rest of them. I've seen the denominations get to scrapping over a lot of things and I tell you it's all of the devil. We ought to love each other.

"Fourth, I John 5:4: 'Whosoever is born of God overcometh the world, you've been overcome by the world.

"You say, 'I just dearly love to read novels.' Well, that's the nature of the flesh. But if you were one of God's real children you would love the thought that God loves.

"You say, I just dearly love the theatre and the dance and the card party. Well those are things all wordlings love. There's many a poor girl who knows she ought to be a Christian, and who might shine for God and be an inspiration to her young friends, but the poor silly little thing would rather dance with the arm of some peanut-headed, snider-legged dude thrown about her than to be a Christian and do what God wants her to do.

"Fifth, I John 2:29: 'Every one that doeth righteousness? Why it is that which is right in the sight of God.'

"Sixth, Here is another proof: I John 3:9: 'Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin.' Now that don't mean he never will commit a sin. Some terrific temptation may sweep down upon him and before he is aware he has fallen, but if he is a Christian he won't go on in that sin, but he will go like Peter and weep bitterly because he fell, and repent of his sin. There are a lot of people in the church today who make sin the practice of their lives.

Warns Against Conditions as They Were Under Cleveland

Editor of Republican:

Are we today a nation of people in the lime light?

No country has progressed as ours. It is true we have made mistakes, but the greatest of minds have made mistakes.

But here's the point, Taft represents the Republican party, the party that saved the nation, in the most perilous hour of the nation's life.

While Taft may have made mistakes, he represents the party that has made us as a people what we are.

Col. Roosevelt is a great man who has made the mistake of his life. His progressive views he learned in the Republican party. I overheard a Roosevelt man addressing a friend say a few days ago, "Why do you suppose I would vote for a man who appointed all those Rebels to office."

This man was a Grand Army man. I quietly said, "I suppose you have reference to Chief Justice White."

"Well," said he, "yes." I said, "Do you not know that Chief Justice White had served 28 years as Chief Justice of the United States?" "No," said he, "I did not." I told him I had it directly from the Clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States that he is now near 80 years of age. A year or more ago when there was a vacancy caused by the death of the oldest member of the Supreme bench, Chief Justice White was the next oldest member and in line to become the presiding officer, with no more power than that given him by President Cleveland when he made him by appointment a Chief Justice, near the beginning of his first term.

A vote for Col. Roosevelt means a vote for Wilson, and a Wilson administration means more Socialism. Socialism means the breaking down of every industry in this great nation, and of millions of laborers thrown out of work.

The strangest thing to me in all this Progressive movement, is that it is fostered and fondled by men who have been honored year after year by offices at the hands of the Republican party, by men who have been life-long Republicans and many disappointed office-seekers. Think of the old soldier who fought on a thousand fields of battle now deserting the flag that made him free! To follow the leadership of one who only wants for power.

You may say Taft never got the one-dollar-a-day pension bill through Congress. Why? Because when there was a chance to get it through the Senate Mr. Beveridge would not lay aside his Lorimer bill to let it pass. Mr. Roosevelt was seven years President, why didn't he get the bill through?

Yes, you may say Taft's reciprocity bill was wrong. Roosevelt was for it and recommended it, until he found the farmer was against it. Then he shifted.

To the young men: many of you have never seen hard times. You don't know what hard times are. You don't know what low wages are.

I worked on a farm for the month during Cleveland's first administration, from 1884 to 1888, for $12.00 to $17.00 per month or 26 working days for $12.00 or $17.00 as the case might be. Now then, what did I pay for the clothes I wore in those days?

Our working clothes consisted mostly of a pair of overalls, $1.00 to $1.50, that you now buy for 50 cents to $1.00. The glove I then paid $1.50 for you can buy at Bliss and Cowling's or Frank Wilson's for 75 cents to $1.00. I bought a suit of clothes of Bliss and Wilson for $18.00 that I can buy of either of the firms today for $14.00, and a much better fitting garment, as they were real hand-me-downs then, but are tailor-made now. What does the average farm hand get now? If he is a single man, $22.00 to $26.00 per month and horse and buggy furnished him in most cases. If a married man, $1.00 a day, garden, a cow and one or two hogs for his meat, all of which is right. But my fellow laborer, isn't it best to let well enough alone?

Did you ever know the Democratic party to legislate for the laboring man? Did they ever pass a pension bill for the soldier? Did they ever help to remove the mortgage from your little farm? Why, Gov. Marshall framed a new constitution during the last session of the Legislature between the hours of 12 and 3 a.m., and not one article of that great document favored the manufacturer or his employees, the farmer or his employees, the producer or the consumer.

All this Bull Moose and Progressivism came about by what is known as bossism. Why, Roosevelt is the greatest boss the Republican party ever had. Two years ago Mr. Beveridge controlled the State convention. A vote for Wilson is a vote to endorse the most formidable boss this country has ever known, Mr. Bryan. For sixteen years he has controlled every National convention held by the Democratic party.

My words of exhortation are: The farmer and his employees, the manufacturer and his army of laborers, the producer and the consumer, the lawyer and his client, the dissatisfied office-holder and those who would be office-holders, who have been so shamefully, so outrageously mistreated, will do well to gaze upon the old flag once more and ask yourself, "Is it all a dream?"

Respectfully,

Clell Maple.

WOODROW WILSON,

Democratic Candidate for President,

being summoned before the bar of the American people as a witness for and in behalf of the Republican party, was examined and testified as follows:

Question: Did you or did you not, in your History of the American People, refer to the years 1893 to 1896, when the Democratic party was in power, as "THOSE FATAL YEARS OF DEPRESSION"?

Answer: I did.

Question: Did you or did you not describe the terrible conditions in those years in the following language, upon pages 235 and 236 of Volume 5: "A great poverty and depression had come upon the western mining regions and upon the agricultural regions of the west and south," and "Men of the poorer sort were idle everywhere and filled with a sort of despair. All of the larger cities and manufacturing towns teemed with unemployed workmen, who were WITH THE UTMOST DIFFICULTY KEPT FROM STARVATION by the systematic efforts of organized charity?"

Answer: I did.

Question: Did you or did you not, after describing this distress in detail and relating that millions of American gold went across the sea to pay foreign creditors, use these words, on page 263: "NOT UNTIL THE YEAR 1897, WHEN THE REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION CAME IN, DID THE CRISIS SEEM TO BE PAST"?

Answer: I did.

The Republican party asks no better witness against a change from sixteen years of Republican prosperity to four years more of Democratic distress than Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate for president.

RECEPTION AND AIR BOTH CHILLY

later, after three years of Taft, in a speech at Cleveland, declared he had not kept faith with the people.

He then set about to attempt to prove that Taft had broken faith with the people. He alluded to the Ballinger episode and the alleged unfair dealings of Taft's Secretary of Agriculture. He pointed out that Taft was repudiated at the polls in many of the Republican states. He said Taft had made himself especially unpopular with tariff legislation and added that the Democratic party had always maintained the government has no right to legislate so the great corporations can make a certain profit.

Mr. Duncan branded the Payne-Aldrich tariff measure the most burdensome one ever passed, but produced no figures to prove it. He declared Taft threw his influence to the interests and helped pass the bill when he could have caused it to be defeated. He passed briefly over Taft's vetoes in the last congress.

The Democratic party, he declared, is a friend of the laborer and the manufacturer, and believes in amassing any mass of money by honest means. He said the country had prospered in spite of the high tariff, and that the Democrats insist on downward revision. Mr. Duncan asserted that the protective policy had been a downright failure. He declared that in the three most protected industries—steel, wool and cotton—the labor is cheaper than in unprotected industries.

Mr. Duncan recalled that the Republican party agreed that some of the schedules should be reduced, but that the Democrats have not sufficient intelligence to do so. He said his party insisted the G. O. P. had been doing it for almost sixty years and that now it wanted a chance.

Mr. Duncan declared his party would regulate railroads and other corporations and that the party is pledged to establish a department of labor, including a bureau of mines, and to enact an employers' liability law. The re-election of Taft, he stated, means four more years of ill-defined effort. He admitted that the Republican charge in 1908 that the Democratic ranks were broken, and insisted that the Republican's once formidable front was rent asunder.

"The Republican brag," he continued, "that they have made this nation a world power and I fling back at them that before Taft was born, before the web-footed ancestors opened their eyes, the Democratic party had made this a world power. It has sung the funeral dirge over the Whig party and will do the same over many others probably before it reaches the end of its career."

Mr. Duncan paid his respects to all the Democratic candidates. He termed Ralston "a consecrated gentleman, who had risen from the masses;" Marshall, one "whose brain is a storehouse of Democratic principles;" Wilson, "a scholarly gentleman."

SCOUTS CLAIMS OF BULL MOOSE

James E. Watson, in Interview at Muncie, Places Them Third in The Race in This State

TAFT SENTIMENT IS GROWING

Republican Who Votes for T. R. Casts Half Vote for Wilson By Default, He Says.

The drift toward Taft, the Republican party and four more years of prosperity set in several weeks ago and is still drifting according to James E. Watson, Indiana's gifted son and one of the foremost political orators of the day, according to the Muncie Press.

Mr. Watson arrived in Muncie yesterday and will deliver an address at the theater in the evening to what was estimated to be one of the biggest Republican gatherings of the year in eastern Indiana. The Press continues:

He was busy at work in his room in the Delaware when the Press man dropped in on him, and was made welcome as another native of Republican Randolph. Watson is looking fine and shows no effects from his strenuous campaigning this fall, although he has toured four states and has visited forty-nine counties in Indiana since the war for prosperity commenced. His voice is as commanding as of yore and he refuses to get a day older.

"There is nothing to this talk about Roosevelt and Beveridge getting more votes than Taft and Durbin in Indiana," said Mr. Watson in response to a query.

"Of course I can't give you any figures, but I have been in many more than half the counties of Indiana, embracing every section of the state, and I am convinced that the bullmoosers are going to be greatly disappointed in Indiana the day after the election, if they really have faith in the claims they are putting out."

"In the southern half of the state the Taft and Durbin men greatly outnumber their bullmoose adversaries, in some of the districts as much as five or six to one, in others about two to one.

"The Sixth district, my own home is more evenly divided, but Taft and Durbin have the best of it there. Wayne county is claimed by the progressive as the stronghold of their cause. They may break even with the Republicans there but the other counties of the district will put it into the Taft column.

"The Indianapolis district I know nothing about, but your own district, the Eighth, I am led to believe, has more bullmoose sentiment than any other district in the state. The Twelfth also has considerable Roosevelt sentiment, but taking the state as a whole Taft and Durbin have it on Roosevelt and Beveridge easily.

"People are now beginning to realize that Roosevelt has no chance of being elected, that it will be either Taft or Wilson and this has set them to thinking. As a result the progressive cause is suffering. It must be either Taft or Wilson and it is up to the people to decide whether they want Taft, protection and prosperity or whether they desire to take a chance on Wilson and free trade.

"No third party can win this year. The moosers are drawing but little support from the democrats and every Republican who deserts his party for the progressives is simply casting half a vote for Wilson by default."

Watson is so well known in Muncie, having lived near this city most of his life, that he is considered one of the "home boys."

As a result when the word got around that "Jim" had come to town earlier than he was expected the friends of the former whip of the house commenced hunting him up at the Delaware. So Watson was kept busy most of the morning answering raps on his door by cheerily inviting the rappers to come in.

Now it is extremely hard to interview a man when people insist on coming in every minute or two to shake hands with him and talk about old times, but The Press man heard enough from Mr. Watson to convince him that the eloquent Hoosier has the same old faith in the Republican party and believes that its principles must finally prevail either this year or next, because Republicanism and prosperity during the past fifty years have gone hand in hand.

MRS. H. H. BRITTON

Owner of St. Louis Nationals Who Fired Roger Bresnahan.

by American Press Association.

St. Louis, Oct. 25.—Roger Bresnahan, who has been discharged as manager of the Cardinal baseball club, will fight in the courts. Mrs. Helene Hathaway Britton, owner of the club, refused to state what the reasons were for Bresnahan's dismissal. The deposed Cardinal leader said he didn't know of any special reason why he was fired except that Mrs. Britton said that she was dissatisfied.

COTTON POOL AND THE SHERMAN LAW

Is the Latter Designed to Control the Former?

Washington, Oct. 25.—The argument submitted on behalf of the government by Solicitor General Bullitt has been concluded and the supreme court has taken under advisement a case that is considered to be one of the most important that has arisen involving a construction of the Sherman anti-trust law. The case was an appeal from the judgment of the federal court for the southern district of New York in what has come to be known as the Cotton Pool case. Certain defendants, James A. Patten and others, were indicted for conspiring to form a combination to buy cotton to an amount in excess of the known crop. The movement was known as a cotton corner to bull prices and reap profits. The government contention raises but one issue. Does a combination of individuals under an agreement to buy up a commodity and enhance the price of the same constitute a criminal conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce under the Sherman anti-trust law?

"For years the people of this country have been trying to find some legal remedy to reach and punish those persons who run corners in a staple product, the effect of which, whether intended or not, is to enhance prices to the consumers," said Solicitor General Bullitt. "We believe we have the remedy in the Sherman law. This is the question we are asking this court to settle for us."

It is because of the unconcealed attempt of the government to use the anti-trust law to break up corners in wheat, cotton and other commodities and, in fact, to put a stop to agreements to purchase, in excess of the known supply, contracts for the future delivery of such products, that invests the present case with so much interest.

SPECIAL WRECKED

Disaster Overtakes President's Inspection Party on the Clover Leaf.

Pittsboro, Ill., Oct. 25.—Thomas H. Hubbard of New York, general chairman of the executive board of the Clover Leaf railroad, was seriously injured, twenty-four others, including high officials of that route, were more or less injured, and John Givens, a negro porter, was instantly killed when a special train of the Clover Leaf route, in which the road's officials were making an inspection trip, was derailed and wrecked near here. John Givens, who was porter on President Ross's private car, was crushed between cars when they buckled on a trestle, and instantly killed.

The neighbors say he was too mean to have a physician. He died alone as he lived. Little is known of Merlino. He never spoke to any person. He never worked. He just existed.

MORE LETTERS READ IN COURT

Iron Workers' Personal Communications Brought Out.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT WITNESS

Member of the Seattle Local of the Iron Workers' Union, and For Many Years One of Its Officers, Turns Over to the Government Letters He Had Received From McNamara and Hockin Bearing Upon Trouble.

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—H. W. Pohlman, a member of the iron workers' union at Seattle and for many years one of its officers, was an important witness in the trial of the alleged dynamiters in federal court. Before going on the stand he turned over to the government without protest four letters he had received from J. J. McNamara and H. S. Hockin, and went on the stand to identify these letters. He also identified several letters written by himself and sent to McNamara. Some of this correspondence the government will attempt to connect with plans to dynamite the Lyon building in Seattle, Aug. 31, 1910, when J. B. McNamara went to the coast to begin a wholesale dynamiting program on the coast. Other letters were written after the Los Angeles Times explosion, and in one of Pohlman's letters is some language which the government construes as showing that Pohlman was informing J. J. McNamara that E. A. Clancy was scared on account of the investigation then in progress. In one of the letters to McNamara, after the Times explosion, was a reference which the government will contend refers to Clancy "weakening" after the Times explosion.

"Your fat friend is leaving for the east," says the letter. "You had better put some guys on him," the government interpreting this as meaning McNamara should take steps to "brace up" Clancy.

William H. Nedley of the Fall River (Mass.) police, testified concerning the dynamiting of material for a bridge between Fall River and Somerset, George O'Donnell, a union iron worker, having been indicted in Massachusetts for this "job." The bridge material was dynamited on June 15, 1908. On the following day, according to Nedley, he found O'Donnell at the scene of the explosion. O'Donnell was arrested for assault with intent to commit murder and was convicted, being sent to the state prison at New Bedford. The indictment for the dynamiting is still pending, said Nedley. He said no officer was present to arrest O'Donnell when he left prison about two years ago, after serving his term for assault with intent to murder.

LOST HIS RIGHTS

Man Who Failed to Register Ineligible to Jury Service.

Greensburg, Ind., Oct. 25.—Judge Robert L. Mason in the circuit court ruled informally on the eligibility of Joseph Roberts to sit on the grand jury which is investigating the Hicks-Martin murder case. Judge Mason said there was some doubt in his mind as to the eligibility of Roberts, as he had failed to register on any of the three registration periods, and therefore was not a legal voter. The law requires that a grand juror must be a legal voter. As the grand jury began its work after the last registration, and as Mr. Roberts had not qualified to vote, he would not be a legal voter till after the election, according to the opinion of some members of the bar here. Judge Mason, rather than take a chance on invalidating the work of the grand jury, held that Roberts could not serve.

Women Will Practice Voting.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 25.—The women of this city will vote for all offices to be filled at the November election the same as men. Miss Ada Campbell has completed arrangements for holding the election, and while the votes, of course, will not be counted, the women will have the satisfaction of knowing how they voted. The plan is to have every woman in the city express her preference for all office seekers. There will be polling places and challengers will be named for each of the parties having candidates.

Threw Dynamite on Stove.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 25.—William Glaser, aged four, son of Albert Glaser, suffered the loss of his left eye, three fingers and a thumb of his right hand here when he threw a dynamite cap on a stove. The flying metal struck his mother and an older brother and both received deep gashes in the face. William's face was torn to shreds and he was otherwise mangled besides the injuries to his eye and hand. It is believed he will die.

Bulldogs Must Go.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 25.—"Bulldogs must go" is the latest decree of the police. Numerous attacks have been made on pedestrians, bicyclists and motorcycleists, which caused the order.

Raised Money and Disappeared.

Elwood, Ind., Oct. 25.—Harrison Coover sold a load of corn here, drove to Indianapolis, where he sold his team and wagon, and disappeared.

JURY SAYS DEATH FOR LIEUT. BECKER

Found Guilty of First Degree Murder.

New York, Oct. 25.—The verdict of Lieutenant Becker's jury, three minutes before midnight, was "Guilty of murder in the first degree." The jury had been out seven hours and fifty-seven minutes. The convicted man bore up under the shock with the grimness and resolution that had characterized him all through the trial. The only visible appearance of shock was a grayness that spread over his dark face, the narrowing of the fierce eyes and a contraction of the muscles of the throat. Presently when he lifted his right hand and gave oath as to the facts of his age and circumstances, his voice failed him. He could answer the formal questions put to him only in husky tones barely audible a few feet from where he stood at the bar of the court. The wife of the convicted man looked calmly at her husband as he stood at the bar and even summoned a smile for his encouragement. Then she fainted.

It has been said that Mr. Whitman, the chief prosecutor, and Mr. Moss, his assistant, were genuinely astonished at the degree of the verdict. This may not have been the case with the counsel for Lieutenant Becker. They had appeared to be utterly confident, the more so as time went on, but before the words of the foreman fell like trip-hammer blows upon the nerves of every man and woman who was waiting when the jury came in, Mr. McIntyre made one last desperate effort to get from the jury further consideration for his client. The foreman was almost ready to answer for his followers when Mr. McIntyre arose quickly, lifted a restraining hand and then demanded the attention of the court.

"I ask you honor that before there are any further proceedings the jury be allowed to examine the testimony taken at Hot Springs."

Justice Goff said simply: "I deny the request."

The clerk of the court then addressed himself to Foreman Skinner of the jury, and the verdict was rendered.

THE TURKS LOSE STRATEGIC POINT

Outpost of Adrianople Taken By Bulgars.

MAY OUST ISLAM IN EUROPE

With Ancient Capital Wrested From Turk by Infuriated People of Balkan States, European Turkey Will Have Lost Its Supremacy in That Region and the Next Step Will Be the Division of Its Territory.

London, Oct. 25.—The capture by the Bulgars of the town and Turkish fortress of Kirk-Killesseh, which has been of vast strategic importance in guarding Adrianople, against which the Bulgarians have been directing their attack for the last three days, is told in dispatches received here. The fighting along the fifty-mile front of Bulgars and Turks near Adrianople is still going on, although dispatches have also been received which state that the Bulgarians have already taken two fortresses close to Adrianople, and are now shelling the town. Both the Turks and the Servians claim tremendous victories in Albania. The Turkish dispatches say that the Turks officially claim to have put the main Servian army to flight. Dispatches from Servia say that the Servians have captured the town of Kumenova.

The fighting around Kirk-Killesseh was the hottest that the war has yet seen. The increase of the fury of the Bulgarian attack and the Turkish defense is attributed to the development of a flanking movement by the forces of Czar Ferdinand. He designed to take the Turkish forces in the rear, and when his detachment got there they found that the Ottoman rear had been heavily reinforced by troops drawn from the districts where the Servians and the Greeks had been engaging the attention of the Turk. Czar Ferdinand's attempt was made in an effort to take the town of Kirk-Killesseh from the rear. If successful he would place the Turks between two fires and cut off their line of communication with Constantinople. The Turks recognized his move, and their forces were thrown against his flanking army in an effort to stop it. Despite fighting of the most desperate sort, they could not prevent him from capturing Kirk-Killesseh.

Decisive Point in the War.

Military authorities who have been studying the situation agree that the capture of the fortress by the Bulgars may develop to be the most decisive point in the war. They think that the Turks, with Adrianople gone, would be of little power in European Turkey, and that Adrianople cannot stand with Kirk-Killesseh lost to the Bulgarians. The fortress is thirty-five miles to the east of Adrianople.

Its capture routs one position of defense for the Turks and gives the Bulgarians another stronghold in their march toward Constantinople, 100 miles away. The Bulgarians captured 1,200 prisoners, several Krupps and rapid-fire guns, and a quantity of wagons and ammunition. The Turks, after the engagement, began a rapid retreat to Viza, which is seventy-four miles northeast of Constantinople. The Turks themselves officially admit that their troops are retreating. Bulgarian dispatches describe the aftermath of the battle as a rout of the most complete order, fleeing Turks abandoning their heavy guns to travel faster, while the Bulgarians followed and pressed them. The Bulgars now are more than twenty miles inside Turkish territory. Their next attack will be Adrianople, and they are in a position now to attack it from the west, north and northeast. If Adrianople is captured, communication between the Turkish capital and the Turkish armies engaging the Greeks and the Servians in the western part of European Turkey will be cut off. The Greeks report that Rizah Bey's army of 22,000 men, which the Greeks have driven from Serdije, is now facing utter destruction or surrender. The Greeks have backed them against the cliffs of Mount Pierra and now are pressing them from the front, so that the Turks have no alternative but to fight, which means annihilation, or to surrender.

Russia Is Interested.

London, Oct. 25.—M. Sazonoff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, is here. It is understood that the purpose of M. Sazonoff's visit at this time is to discuss the situation in the Balkans.

LOCAL TEAM GOING TO CONNERSVILLE

Season Will Close Sunday With Game
at Whitewater Park—Expect
Hard Contest.

WILL BE CALLED AT 2 O'CLOCK

The Rushville base ball team will play the final game of the season Sunday at Connerville. The Connerville team has been going at a fast clip and hopes to take the locals into camp. It is a much faster aggregation than that which met the locals the first of the season. Connerville won one game from Rushville and the locals came back and defeated them, so the game Sunday will be the "rubber."

Scott Cooley or Bud Maxwell will pitch for Connerville while Halterman will be on the mound for Rushville. Because of the fine traction accommodations, a large crowd of local fans will go to Connerville. On account of the cool weather the game will be called at two o'clock.

HONESTY MUST BE USED IN PACKING

Judge of Indiana Apple Show Decries
Custom of Placing Good Fruit
on Top.

URGES GRADING OF APPLES

The eastern and middle-western apple package has long been viewed with disfavor by the buyer. Too often upon opening a package it was found to contain good fruit on top and the wormy, runty culls in the center. The "deaconing" of the package has done a great deal to lower the price of Indiana fruit. Honesty in the commercial package must be observed. Properly graded and packed Indiana fruit can favorably compete with the products of the world.

Prof. Van Doman, who is to judge the 1912 Apple Show, says: "A rule that I put in force at Hood River was that I was going to put a penalty on everything that looked like deception. I would cut off all that should be cut off for lack of coming up to the scratch and then doubled it for deception. I found several cases in that A-No. 1 bon ton apple show and they were severely dealt with. That is what I will do at Indianapolis when I judge there this fall. That is the only way to be right. Be perfectly fair and square with ourselves and the world at large."

This season Indiana has a good crop of apples. Less than one-third of this crop will come from sprayed trees. Grade your fruit closely, pack attractively and the general run of fruit need never come in competition with it. Establish a grade and your fruit sells itself.

OFFICE IS OPEN AT NIGHT

Taxes May be Paid Each Evening
Until November 5.

The days for paying the fall installment of taxes are not many. The last opportunity will come the day before election, a week from next Monday. In order to accommodate men who are too busy throughout the day to visit the county treasurer's office, it will be open every night until the close of taxpaying time from seven until nine o'clock. The office will be closed every afternoon at five o'clock to give the clerks opportunity to straighten up the books each day.

WEDDING BELLS TO TURN TRICK

for 190 days in order that he may be held until the two divorcees are granted.

He promised to marry Mrs. Lingenfelder after she is divorced and to live with her and their four young children after he marries her.

In order to escape prosecution on the bigamy charge, Isaacs and Mrs. Lingenfelder admitted in court that they never had been married. The bigamy charge against Isaacs was dismissed and statutory charges were placed against both. Mrs. Lingenfelder got the same sentence, but judgment was withheld.

Mrs. Lingenfelder will be cared for by charity and will go to Indianapolis hospital in a few days. Until she and Isaacs are married their four children will stay in the Indianapolis Orphan's asylum. The court will be notified when the divorcees are granted, and Acting Judge Reagen said Isaacs might be released at that time.

Deputy Prosecutor McCarty, says the Indianapolis News, asked that Isaac receive the maximum punishment. He said that Isaacs had urged Mrs. Lingenfelder to desert her husband and that his attitude all through was that of a home wrecker.

Lingenfelder's daughter by his first wife was given into the custody of his parents who live in Indianapolis.

Mark E. Forkner of Newcastle and Chauncey Duncan, Republican joint senatorial candidate, had a good meeting at Falmouth last night. A. J. Ross and W. R. Jinnett will speak at Applegate school house in Noble township next Monday night.

All members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. will meet at the home of Mrs. John Reardon this evening at eight o'clock to go in a body to the home of Mrs. John Kelley who died today.

WHEN MEN HAVE WORK WHY VOTE FOR A CHANGE?

WEDDING BELLS TO TURN TRICK

William E. Lingenfelder And Others
in Bigamy Tangle Will Get
Divorce and Remarry.

HE FILES SUIT HERE TODAY

Will Pass as Sloan Until he Gets Decree and Then Begin Over Again
as Lingenfelder.

More wedding bells will disentangle the three-cornered bigamy case in Indianapolis in which William E. Lingenfelder, alias Edward Sloan, of this city, is involved. All are to escape punishment with the exception of George Isaacs, of Indianapolis, who yesterday was sentenced to the work house in Indianapolis until his first wife divorces him and Lingenfelder divorces his first wife, the present Mrs. Isaacs.

The first step in the divorcing and remarrying of the four people involved was taken here today when Lingenfelder brought suit for a divorce from his first wife, who has given birth to four children by Isaacs but who swore in court that she had never been married to Isaacs in order to escape being prosecuted for bigamy.

The divorce complaint by Lingenfelder says that he and his first wife were married in Jeffersonville, Ind., June 4, 1893. He makes a serious charge against her in regard to her relations with George Isaacs, who was a boarder at their home when they resided in Indianapolis.

The complaint states that Mrs. Lingenfelder abandoned her husband January 3, 1905, after having lived with him little more than 11 years. The Indianapolis Star says today that three months after Isaacs came to board at the Lingenfelder's home, Mrs. Myrtle Lingenfelder left her husband and went to live with Isaacs. They have been living together ever since.

Lingenfelder's divorce suit will probably come up next term of court, which opens in a few weeks. Lingenfelder says that he will live under his assumed name, Edward Sloan, which name he has used during his seven years' residence here, until his divorce is procured. Then he declares he will remarry his present wife under his real name and will be known by that name henceforth.

No one holds Lingenfelder responsible for his part in the bigamy tangle. The police court judge in Indianapolis did not hold him responsible else he would have ordered him prosecuted. When Mrs. Myrtle Lingenfelder abandoned him and went to live with Isaacs, he naturally supposed they were married.

The three-cornered mix-up was discovered when Mrs. Lola Isaacs of Columbus, O., went to Indianapolis last week to file suit against her husband in order to recover a sum of money and found that he had been married again. This revelation brought out the fact that Isaacs second wife had never been divorced from her first husband, Lingenfelder, who also had married again.

Mrs. Isaacs has returned to Columbus and will apply for divorce at once. Due to the law in Ohio, she can not get a decree of separation in less than ninety days. So Isaacs will have at least that time to serve in the Indianapolis workhouse.

Isaacs was sent to the workhouse

TRAIN ALMOST HIT AUTO

Dr. R. T. Blount Has Close Call in
Main Street.

Dr. R. T. Blount narrowly escaped being hit by the north bound Pennsylvania passenger train last evening at the Main street crossing. Dr. Blount was driving north in his automobile and failed to see the train until it was almost upon him. He was on the crossing and in order to avoid being hit, angled towards the sidewalk and drove the machine on the lawn at the home of Robert Hiner. His presence of mind probably saved his life for the machine would have been hit had he gone straight across in front of the train.

SPRING MEETING TO BE AT HAMILTON

Dr. James E. Morris of Liberty Elected President of Union District
Medical Society.

PRaise for Local Doctors

Hamilton, Ohio, was selected as the place for the next regular spring meeting of the Union District Medical Society, which closed its fall session here late yesterday. There was no opposition to the selection.

Dr. James E. Morris of Liberty was elected president to succeed Dr. P. M. Sater of Hamilton, O., the retiring official. Dr. Morris was the first charter member of the society and is the oldest member. Dr. Franklin T. DuBois of Liberty was elected vice-president and Dr. David W. Stevenson of Richmond, secretary.

The thirty-five visiting physicians were profuse in their praise of the local doctors for the entertainment received here. The program was carried out in full yesterday afternoon.

SIMMEN SYSTEM TO BE INSTALLED

Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction
Company Will Abide by Order
of Railroad Commission.

18 MILES ALREADY EQUIPPED

The Railroad Commission of Indiana issued orders yesterday for the installation of automatic block signals on nine interurban lines including the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company. The I. & C. will use the Simmen system on its two divisions. The cost of installing the automatic blocks is approximately $1,000 a mile.

The commission heretofore has approved the installation of the Simmen system on eighteen miles of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company. The system is used on the Greensburg division between the junction and Shelbyville. The order of the commission means that the entire system will be equipped with the Simmen block. The orders were issued under the block signal act passed by the recent General Assembly and the signals are to be in operation by July, 1913.

CASE HEARD HERE TWICE IS ENDED

Verdict of $2000 is Returned in Wolf
Damage Suit After Five
Trials.

JURY DISAGREES FOUR TIMES

First Hearing Held Seven Years Ago
in Columbus—Finish is There,
Too.

A litigation which has continued intermittently for seven years came to an end when a jury at Columbus Thursday afternoon gave a verdict to Fred Wolf, plaintiff in the celebrated Wolf case, for $2,000.

The Wolfe case is famous because it has been tried five times—twice at Rushville and three times at Columbus. In each of the four former trials the juries disagreed. In this respect the case holds a unique place in legal history. He says that old lawyers have told him they never heard of four disagreements in one case.

Burney Wolf was a resident of Greensburg and died as the result of injuries sustained while coupling cars on a Big Four freight at Valley Junction, Ohio, about five years ago. The case was filed in the Decatur Circuit Court and was taken from there to Rush county on a change of venue. It was tried twice there and the jury disagreed each time. The case was then taken to Anderson on a change of venue and was tried twice, the jury failing to agree each time.

The father brought suit for $10,000 against the company, alleging that the accident was the result of a wrong signal given by the conductor of the train.

The case was tried before Special Judge W. Donaker in Columbus, having been begun on the last day of the September term, and was then continued in vacation until its conclusion. It is reported that attorneys for the plaintiff, Wolf, offered to compromise the case for $500.

In addition to agreeing upon a general verdict the jury had to answer fifty-eight interrogatories submitted by attorneys for the railroad company. After the verdict was read Clerk Cox was required to read the interrogatories and the answers the jury gave to each question.

The jury in the present trial retired at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The twelve men balloted all night without reaching a verdict. About 10 o'clock Thursday morning they asked to be re-instructed and Judge Donaker read the instructions a second time. The jury then retired and reached a verdict at 1:30.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Muncie Press: The Chicago Tribune is exceedingly severe in its strictures upon John M. Harlan and Adam Bede for their alleged abusiveness during the present campaign, but it does not go so far as to accuse these men of calling the Tribune's candidate for governor of Illinois the present executive of that state, a "scoundrel and a falsifier," although we believe some self restrained and mild spoken statesman did something of that sort at Chicago this week.

Mrs. Will Jones entertained the employees of the Davis-Jones millinery store with an oyster supper last evening at her home south of the city.

RECEPTION AND AIR BOTH CHILLY

But Thomas Duncan Puts Most
Scholarly Effort of Local Campaign Across Footlights.

IT IS SAFE AND SANE SPEECH

Crowd of Less Than Hundred People Gathers to Hear Democratic Principles Explained.

Seventy-one men, six women and five boys—which did not include the Homer glee club of six members, County Chairman, Sam Trabue and the speaker, all of whom sat on the platform—heard Thomas Duncan of Princeton, once Democratic candidate for congress, deliver—or rather read—a speech at the Coliseum last evening. It was about the most scholarly effort that has been out across the footlights at the Coliseum during this campaign.

Although the air was chilly and the crowd so small that it offered no inspiration to the orator for the occasion, Mr. Duncan stayed with his speech for an hour and a half, and then cut it short and quit. The speech showed the fruits of great preparation and long study. Every sentence was properly constructed, each thought hinged on something suggested in its predecessor. The rhetoric, the grammar, the enunciation and everything, with the exception of that which makes a campaign speech—oratorical ability—was there.

Slowly, but surely, stepping tediously, Mr. Duncan read his perfectly safe and sane argument for Democracy from his manuscript lying before him on a box. It was so much like a college professor's lecture on economics in a college class room. The audience paid attention, but there was no enthusiasm aroused, no spirited applause evoked. It will stand unique in the history of campaigns in Rushville as a perfectly safe and sane undamaging political oration.

"I am an optimist," said Mr. Duncan at the outset, and then he plunged into a lot of high-flown language to prove it. "While we are contending with much heat—not very much here this evening, however—about the political issues of the day, we will find, in the end, that the American people have worked out the great questions to their own satisfaction."

"We are expecting too much of government," continued Mr. Duncan. Prosperity and content must come from individual effort."

In glowing terms Mr. Duncan pictured the great prosperity of the nation its natural resources, and recalled that its inhabitants are a most intelligent people. He asserted that no form of government could prevent this people from thriving, and that the present prosperity is not the result of Republican legislation but of the wonderful environment and the heritage of the race.

He read from the Republican platform in 1908 wherein Roosevelt was copiously praised. He pointed out that no man was ever so gloriously eulogized, and then recalled that the 1912 platform reiterated the clause concerning Roosevelt in the 1908 platform.

He recalled that Roosevelt, when he retired from the presidency, stated that Taft was pre-eminently fitted for the highest office in the land, and

BULL MOOSE WILL BE 4TH ON TICKET

Deputy Clerk Gets State Ballots in
Indianapolis Today—Order on County Ballots Same.

COMMISSION MEETS TONIGHT

Birney D. Spradling, deputy clerk of the circuit court, went to Indianapolis this morning and returned with the State ballots for the coming national election. In the State ballots the tickets are arranged in the following order: Democratic, Republican, Prohibitionist, Progressive, Socialist and Socialist Labor. The State election commission instructed the clerk to have the county election commission observe the same order on the county ballots which will be printed here in a few days, with the exception that the last named ticket will not be on the county ballot.

The county election commission will meet tonight and make final arrangements for the printing of the county ballots.

Prospects for the big religious demonstration which will take place Saturday night brightened considerably today. Members of Dr. Biederwolf's party visited the factories and received assurances without exception that a delegation would come from every factory in the city.

A fine crowd was out last night to hear Dr. Biederwolf's sermon on "Born Again." It was a challenge to infidelity to reveal what it had done to make the world better, and a reiteration of the glories of the Christian faith. The sermon was in part as follows:

The Bible says: "The Bible says: 'God created man in His own image; in the image of God created He him.' That's the simple story of how man was ushered into the world. Some people say they don't believe it. Instead of saying, 'I believe in God the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth,' they say, 'I believe in the chaotic nebula, self-existent evolver of heaven and earth,' and instead of saying that God created man in His own image, they improve on the word of God by telling us that

ADMIRAL FELT RESPONSIBILITY

Commander of Czar's Yacht
Kills Himself.

ILLNESS OF THE CZAROVITCH

Injury to the Heir to the Throne of All the Russias Said to Have Been Due to a Fall While Playing About the Royal Yacht, the Old Commander of Which, Feeling His Responsibility in the Matter, Blows His Head Off.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—A sensation which was intensified when reports connected the admiral's act with the sickness of the czarovitch, was created by the suicide by shooting of Rear Admiral Chagin, commander of the czar's yacht, Standart. Chagin was a bachelor and lived in a flat here with two valets when not at sea. He had written letters to relatives and arranged his affairs in such a manner as to show that his suicide was as deliberate as that of General Nogi. When he had completed all his business he secured a loaded rifle, filled the barrel with water and fired at his head, which was almost completely blown away.

An unsealed note was found on his writing table, which read: "I ask that nobody be accused of my death."

Nothing is certainly known as to the reason for the admiral's suicide, but gossip, which has now abandoned the story, declares that the injury to the czarovitch was due to a fall which he sustained while climbing the spars of the Standart or otherwise playing on the royal yacht, and that Admiral Chagin was so overwhelmed with a sense of responsibility for the accident to the heir to the throne that he resolved to die.

Chagin was a favorite with the imperial family and was regarded as one of the ablest of the Russian naval commanders. He led the Russian jackies at Peking during the Boxer rebellion and commanded the cruiser Almaz at Tsushima, whence he safely took her to Vladivostok at the outbreak of the war with Japan.

Cause of Illness a Mystery.

The nature of the czar's son's sickness continues to be a mystery. The court suppresses everything about him except the physicians' bulletins. Loyal Russians are deeply concerned over the matter and are most eager for information, but are unable to learn anything except the rumors about his being thrown from his pony and falling from the spars of the royal yacht Standart, and other such stories. The czar, whose devotion to the boy is notorious, is reported to be so stricken that he is unable to attend to state business. It is stated unofficially that Prof. Feodoroff, who is attending the crown prince, on being adjured by the czarina to tell the whole truth, admitted that an attack of kidney disease had left one of the boy's kidneys seriously affected. The czarina fell in a faint on receiving this information, and shortly after she revived and went off in another fainting spell. The shock had the very worst effect on her feeble health, and she is now completely prostrated.

It is rumored that Chagin's suicide was due to a love affair. He believed he had been jilted by his sweetheart, but this proved to be a mistake. When the girl learned of the officer's suicide she cut her throat with a razor and fell dead.

BACK IN HARNESS

Colonel Roosevelt Today Resumed His Routine Work.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Colonel Roosevelt today made his first move toward getting back into harness again. One of his secretaries was called in and they together tackled the past fortnight's accumulation of mail and telegrams. It is now certain, unless some new contingency arises, that the colonel will speak briefly at the meeting in Madison Square Garden next Tuesday night. It is likely that tomorrow his conferences here with his leaders will be in full swing once more.

The colonel surprised his household yesterday by dressing himself without assistance and walking into the dining room where the family was gathered, with a demand for breakfast. "I feel fine," he exclaimed with a grin; "bully, in fact; give me something to eat."

He was permitted to remain downstairs the greater part of the day, putting in his time in his library, where in the afternoon he had a nap. The colonel wore the knickerbocker suit in which he is accustomed to ride and play tennis, and he looked like his old self. He was without medical attendance save for a routine call for the purpose of taking the colonel's temperature. Those who are attending the ex-president express great amazement over the promptness with which he has recovered his strength.

Planned Wholesale Massacre.

Larisa, Oct. 25.—The massacre by the Turks at Serdije, or Servia, is reported to have been the beginning of what was intended to be the destruction of the whole Christian population. The near approach of the Greeks prevented this from being carried out. The victims of the massacre were all women and children.

Island Republic Having More Trouble.

Washington, Oct. 25.—According to dispatches received at the state department, Dominican rebels have secured control over practically all of the province of Samana, on the north coast of the republic. It is said that the rebels have bombarded the town of Samana at the head of the bay. They have also captured Sanchez and Sabana de Mer. The naval transport Prairie with 750 marines aboard, has gone to Samana bay to investigate. The marines will be landed if necessary for the protection of American interests. The state department also learned that fighting has taken place in the streets of Puerto Plata. There have been many casualties in these skirmishes. A general attack upon the city by rebels is believed to have taken place by now, though the means of communication with Puerto Plata are so uncertain that nothing is known definitely beyond the fact that an attack was planned.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 27.

WANDERINGS IN DECAPOLIS.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 7:31-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—"He hath done all things well: He maketh even the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak."—Mark 7:37 R. V.

Last week we saw our Lord in the region of Tyre and Sidon dealing with the Syrophenician woman. In v 31 (R. V.) we now see him journeying back towards the Sea of Galilee through the border of that section containing ten cities, for that is what the word Decapolis means.

1. JESUS THE HEALER (vv. 31-37). Jesus had gone north seeking rest but he "could not be hid," and now upon his return he continues to meet these sad cases which need healing, and who are brought to him by their intensely interested friends. Jesus does not need beseeching. He whose heart was touched with compassion is ready to hear the faintest cry.

This first section is rich with suggestions. Jesus takes the man apart suggesting the necessity for individual personal dealing with God. Men are not saved en masse but as separate individuals, it could not be otherwise and have a man retain his personality. To work any cure for our sins Jesus demands our individual attention. Then Jesus placed his fingers in the man's ears; suggesting the added emphasis that we must come into personal contact with God if we would be healed. We may stop to reason (Isa. 1:18) with him but our sins, that be as scarlet, will not be removed unless we come by personal, individual, experience under the blood, (Eph. 1:7).

"His blood avails for all our race,
His blood avails for me."

Moistening the man's tongue with his own saliva suggests that the source of healing is to be in Jesus' own person. Our salvation is not in the words he spoke, nor the life he lived, but the life he gave (Heb. 9:12-14).

Fellowship With God.

Jesus also looked to heaven, indicating that we must continue in fellowship with God, and also indicating his own fellowship with the Father. Jesus sighed over the wreck of sin. The son of man came to bear our sorrows and to share our griefs. (Isa. 63:9). Attention has been called to the sighs and the tears of Jesus. If our prayers were more accompanied by tears and heartfelt sighs they would be more powerful. (cf. Romans 8:26). It is equally true that if our sighing were accompanied by more prayers we would accomplish more in his kingdom.

After these preliminary and suggestive acts Jesus spoke the one word "Ephphatha"—Be opened—and deaf ears were opened to words of praise and counsel and to the cry of distress. Loosed was the man's tongue to speak his word of personal testimony and to witness for his healer. Read Isaiah 32:14 and 35:4, 5.

II. JESUS THE PROVIDER (vv. 1-10, cf. Matt. 15:32-38).

The tremendous stir Jesus caused is graphically suggested by Mark in verse one of this section. From far and near they had gathered and now at the end of the third day their small supply of food is exhausted. We are told by John (6:26, 27) why they had followed him, still they were deeply interested in him and considered him to be a prophet (John 6:14). Nevertheless Jesus was moved with a compassion then, even as now he is moved when he beholds us in our unworthiness.

No Hunger Too Great.

The compassion of Jesus is a very active principle, it does not consist of sighs and lamentations, or of investigations and condemnation of conditions. His compassion causes him to act. But the disciples are aghast at his suggestion that he feed this multitude of "about four thousand." "Whence shall one be able to fill these men with bread?" (R. V.). On the other occasion Jesus had asked Philip, who lived in the near-by town of Bethsaida, where they might find bread; but now they are in a desert place. It may seem strange for the disciples to ask such a question. He had fed a larger number with smaller resources.

After taking stock (v. 5) Jesus commands the people to sit down. He received their seven loaves (v. 6) and broke and gave, first to the disciples, and through them to the people. Such as they had, first given to him, responding to his touch, was enough and to spare (v. 8). When we give him our all he will bless, multiply and use.

Our Golden Text (v. 37) is suggestive of a wide application in teaching this lesson. We have in this lesson two incidents as illustrations. In both we can see those principles that govern his life and ministry, viz., unvarying loyalty to God and unwearied compassion for poor, weak humanity. As has already been suggested, we also see that the methods of Jesus varied, according to the individual need and always with the unswerving purpose of glorifying God. The same lesson of careful conservation of what remained is taught us in the case of the feeding of the five thousand.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS.

Oct. 27, 1912.

[Copyright, 1911, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.]

Wanderings in Decapolis. Mark vii:31-viii:10.

Golden Text—He hath done all things well; he maketh both the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak. Mark vii:37.

(1.) Verse 31—Describe the route Jesus took from the coast of Tyre and Sidon to the sea of Galilee.

(2.) Why did Jesus stay so short a time in one place?

(3.) Verses 32-35—What is the extent of the loss borne by one who is both deaf and dumb?

(4.) What is being done and what more can be done for the deaf and dumb of this country than we are doing?

(5.) Why did Jesus use such an elaborate process in curing this man when most of his other miracles were so simple?

(6.) Would you say that Jesus used these signs as the only way to convey to the patient what he was going to do for him? Why?

(7.) Why did Jesus perform this miracle in private when most of his other miracles were done in public?

(8.) Did Jesus perform this miracle by his own innate power or by the power of God in answer to his "looking up into heaven?"

(9.) Should we bring our sick ones to Jesus today in expectation that he will heal them or should we use the means to that end which God has given us in nature?

(10.) Verse 38—Which is the greater sinner, and why, he who tells things God wishes not to be made known or he who keeps to himself what he ought to publish abroad?

(11.) Why did Jesus want this miracle kept secret?

(12.) Disobedience always results in evil. What evil results probably came from this act of disobedience to Jesus' command?

(13.) Verse 37—If our historic vision of this miracle were as acute as that of the eyewitnesses what would our estimate of it be?

(14.) Mention if you can any word or act of Jesus which would prevent you from saying, "He hath done all things well."

(15.) What man in all history stirs today the most astonishment, and why is it so? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(16.) viii:1-4—What evidence is there that the feeding of the four thousand is not a variation of the account of the feeding of the five thousand?

(17.) What reason is there to suppose that Jesus sympathized with those in need today as he did in that day?

(18.) Notwithstanding that God does not supply our needs now miraculously, does he supply them surely and may we absolutely trust him for the future? Why?

(19.) What class of people formed this multitude?

(20.) What shape does Christ's "compassion on the multitude" take today?

(21.) Is time spent in the service of Christ ever forgotten by him and is it ever profitless? Why?

(22.) Verse 5—What proof is there that our ability, our opportunity and our resources are ample for our full duty?

(23.) Verses 6-10—What are the advantages of system and order in both our sacred and secular matters?

(24.) What better is food after it has been "blessed" than before?

(25.) What are the evils of waste and the gain of economy?

Ibrahim the Ingenious.

Ibrahim, whose dusty history Dr. Hester Donaldson Jenkins of Columbia university has related in monograph, entitled "Ibrahim Pasha, Grand Vizier of Suleiman the Magnificent," was a child of destiny.

By birth a Greek, he rose from the estate of a slave to a position second only to that of the sultan himself, and the secret of his swift rise to power is subtly indicated by an isolated instance of his cleverness in playing upon his master's vanity. Soon after Suleiman's marriage the young sultan is said to have asked his grand vizier which of the two ceremonies was the finer, his own or Ibrahim's.

"There never has been a feast equal to my wedding," Ibrahim replied. "Why?" asked the sultan, somewhat offended.

"Oh, my padishah," said Ibrahim, with intense modesty, "my wedding was honored by the presence of Suleiman, lord of the age, firm rampart of Islam, possessor of Mecca, lord of Damascus and Egypt, caliph of the lofty threshold and lord of the residence of the Pleiades, but to your festival who was there of equally exalted rank who might come?"

Eiffel Tower's Changes.

That the Eiffel tower moves daily vertically and horizontally has long been beyond doubt. It may be seen in a gale swaying from side to side. M. Guillaume has been investigating these movements and has given the results in a paper read before the Academy of Science. He finds that the great iron structure may vary from two to three centimeters in height every day. The elevation and depression are not equally distributed, as only one of its sides may be affected by the rise or fall of the temperature, and thus the tower may be compared to a person shifting his weight alternately from one foot to another. If a cloud covers the tower and hides the sun the temperature falls a few degrees and the tower diminishes, and when the sun shines again it rapidly rises a centimeter or two. But the bolts holding the frame together are affected only to an infinitesimal degree. Therefore there is no danger of any violent dislocation.—Exchange.

The Dog's Day.

Luckily for the human race, though styles come and go, mankind itself never goes out of fashion. Dogs are not so lucky. Every age has its preference for a particular breed of canine beauty. The greyhound, with his light, sketchy outlines, was in high favor during the reign of Louis XII, and the Great Dane, that had previously been the fashion, declined into a period of "nobody loves me." Danes became scarce and greyhounds plenty. But under Louis XV. the Dane "came back" and multiplied again. The king's dog wore a collar of gold set with diamonds. Following this, the Scotch terrier had his turn. Then the greyhound came back in favor. Charles VIII, Henry IV. and Louis XIII. loved their dogs so well that the dogs slept in the royal bedrooms.—New York Mail.

Taft Strength Growing.

Oswald F. Shumette, one of the most experienced and reliable newspaper correspondents in the country, who has just returned from a tour of the western states, says that the Roosevelt movement in the states west of the Mississippi is waning fast, and the Taft strength is growing. Roosevelt's western trip was a distinct disappointment, and left him weaker than when he started on the journey. Harlan and Bede, who are following the trail of the moose, got as big crowds as Roosevelt himself—in fact his meetings only helped his adversaries get a hearing that might otherwise have been denied them. The frantic efforts of the bull moose organs here in Indiana to make people think that the fight is between Roosevelt and Wilson is evidence that even

Editorialettes.

The Democratic orator last night declared—and he talked like he meant it—that he is an optimist. Those are two things that are hard to reconcile, a Democrat and an optimist.

A Frankfort colored orator has realized about four thousand dollars off a comic opera and some other musical compositions he wrote and has returned, sad to relate, to his former home in Muncie.

My, how times does fly! Here we are again ready to think of Christmas, and do you know, that except for a few days grace, it is only "EIGHT WEEKS TO CHRISTMAS."

The doctors invited the newspaper reporters to their repast yesterday, evidently believing they might get a few cases of appendicitis, but we fooled them and didn't eat very much.

"Uses Mind, Not Nose, in Testing Stale Eggs," says a newspaper headline. That, we take it, is the happy thought of the day.

PROSPECTS FOR PARADE BRIGHTER

our ancestors were common chimpanzees, and that God never made us at all. The whole thing started in a little infinitesimal speck of unexplainable something which grew and developed and changed until at last through certain differentiating processes it was finally rationalized and perfected into man, and if you want to trace your ancestry you must go back through all the countless years and see yourself in the chimpanzee, and the monkey, and further back find your great grandparents in some amphibious froglike creature about 18 inches long and 6 wide, says Darwin, and then in some wriggling worm in the slime beds of stagnant pools and so on ad infinitum, ad nauseam, until you shake hands with your former self in the shape of this wonder insignificant so called primordial germ whose origin the Darwinians have never been able to discover and which I have an idea must be a mystery to God himself. Because you know it is that way. Huxley and Darwin said so.

"Some fellow will dam up a little rivulet, pile up some dirt on either side and make an artificial lake and then swell up as though they had created the Pacific ocean. They will throw up a pile of brick and mortar, carve their names in stone and then blow as if they made the Rocky Mountains. First we had the candle, then we got the gas, Edison, manufactured the electric lights, but to hear some people talk it won't be long till some one crawls up into the sky and blows the sun out.

"Every creature born into this world has a nature after its own kind. You can't train a bird to crawl for the same reason you can't train a snake to fly. True to his nature a caterpillar," but we say, the creature has been changed—it's got a new nature—it's been born again; it's a butterfly. The same thing is true of the natural and spiritual man.

"But you might as well try to lift yourself by pulling at your foot straps, as to try to generate within yourself that quality of life that will lift you into the Kingdom of God.

"There's a mighty difference between reformation and regeneration; some of the worst men on this side of hell are reformed men. I know a fellow who was once a drunken old bum, and he reformed and became the keeper of a brothel. He reformed again and became a gambler. He reformed again and became a gentleman of leisure. Once he rolled in the gutter, but now he sits in his diamond studded shirt and latest cut of clothes, on the piazza of a high class hotel. Quite a difference, you say. Yes. Reformation did it, but he's a child of the devil just the same and that's all there is to it.

"Some people try to make out that the thing a sinner needs is a change in surroundings, but if a man ain't got the heart in him to do right, he'll go wrong where ever you put him. If there's something wrong in the old clock that hangs on the wall, do you think you can make her go by taking her out in the barn and hanging her up there? No, you can't. The trouble is with the works, and you've got to go down into the nature of the thing and fix her up there, and that's the way it is with you. You're wrong in your works; that's what's the matter with you; you've got the devil in you and you'll do what the devil says, no matter if you change your environment a dozen times a year. It's not a new town you need, it's a new nature, and when you get that you'll be a Christian and do the will of God in one place as well as another.

"Listen: First, I John 5:10: 'He that is born of God hath the witness in himself.' If you are walking in newness of life and trying to keep yourself unspotted from the world, you'll know you are a child of God. You'll feel differently about God. You'll think of Him as your Father, instead of some far off supreme Being. You'll find it easy to believe in God's word and what it says about your salvation, and you'll have a conviction about the matter that will bring you peace.

"Second, I John 5:10: 'Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ, is born of God.'

"You say I believe that; but how do you believe it? Do you give mere intellectual assent to it, or do you believe it with your heart? The devil believed the other way; he was so orthodox that he trembled. But have you confessed Jesus as your Christ? If you really believe a thing in your heart, don't you think you would confess it with your mouth? If you believed in Jesus as your Christ, you'd take Him wherever you go, and you'd be proud to bear His name.

"Third, I John 3:15: 'We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren.' 'But if you're born of God you'll love each other. You Episcopalians will love the Methodists, and you Methodists will love the Episcopalians and the Baptists and all the rest of them. I've seen the denominations get to scrapping over a lot of things and I tell you it's all of the devil. We ought to love each other.

"Fourth, I John 5:4: 'Whosoever is born of God overcometh the world, you've been overcome by the world.

"You say, 'I just dearly love to read novels.' Well, that's the nature of the flesh. But if you were one of God's real children you would love the thought that God loves.

"You say, 'I just dearly love the theatre and the dance and the card party.' Well those are things all wordlings love. There's many a poor girl who knows she ought to be a Christian, and whom might shine for God and be an inspiration to her young friends, but the poor silly little thing would rather dance with the arm of some peanut-headed, snicker-legged dude thrown about her than to be a Christian and do what God wants her to do.

"Fifth, I John 2:29: 'Every one that doeth righteousness. Why it is that which is right in the sight of God.

"Sixth, Here is another proof: I John 3:9: 'Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin.' Now that don't mean he never will commit a sin. Some terrific temptation may sweep down upon him and before he is aware he has fallen, but if he is a Christian he won't go on in that sin, but he will go like Peter and weep bitterly because he fell; and repent of his sin. There are a lot of people in the church today who make sin the practice of their lives.

Warns Against Conditions as They Were Under Cleveland

Editor of Republican:

Are we today a nation of people in the lime light?

No country has progressed as ours. It is true we have made mistakes, but the greatest of minds have made mistakes.

But here's the point, Taft represents the Republican party, the party that saved the nation, in the most perilous hour of the nation's life.

While Taft may have made mistakes, he represents the party that has made us as a people what we are.

Col. Roosevelt is a great man who has made the mistake of his life. His progressive views he learned in the Republican party. I overheard a Roosevelt man addressing a friend say a few days ago, "Why do you suppose I would vote for a man who appointed all those Rebels to office?" This man was a Grand Army man. I quietly said, "I suppose you have reference to Chief Justice White."

"Well," said he, "yes." I said, "Do you not know that Chief Justice White had served 28 years as Chief Justice of the United States?" "No," said he, "I did not." I told him I had it directly from the Clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States that he is now near 80 years of age. A year or more ago when there was a vacancy caused by the death of the oldest member of the Supreme bench, Chief Justice White was the next oldest member and in line to become the presiding officer, with no more power than that given him by President Cleveland when he made him by appointment a Chief Justice, near the beginning of his first term.

A vote for Col. Roosevelt means a vote for Wilson, and a Wilson administration means more Socialism. Socialism means the breaking down of every industry in this great nation, and of millions of laborers thrown out of work.

The strangest thing to me in all this Progressive movement, is that it is fostered and fondled by men who have been honored year after year by offices at the hands of the Republican party, by men who have been life-long Republicans and many disappointed office-seekers. Think of the old soldier who fought on a thousand fields of battle now deserting the flag that made him free! To follow the leadership of one who only wants for power.

You may say Taft never got the one-dollar-a-day pension bill through Congress. Why? Because when there was a chance to get it through the Senate Mr. Beveridge would not lay aside his Lorimer bill to let it pass. Mr. Roosevelt was seven years President, why didn't he get the bill through?

Yes, you may say Taft's reciprocity bill was wrong. Roosevelt was for it and recommended it, until he found the farmer was against it. Then he shifted.

To the young men: many of you have never seen hard times. You don't know what hard times are. You don't know what low wages are.

I worked on a farm by the month during Cleveland's first administration, from 1884 to 1888, for $12.00 to $17.00 per month or 26 working days for $12.00 or $17.00 as the case might be. Now then, what did I pay for the clothes I wore in those days? Our working clothes consisted mostly of a pair of overalls, $1.00 to $1.50, that you now buy for 50 cents to $1.00. The glove I then paid $1.50 for you can buy at Bliss and Cowling's or Frank Wilson's for 75 cents to $1.00 now. I bought a suit of clothes of Bliss and Wilson for $18.00 that I can buy of either of the firms today for $14.00, and a much better fitting garment, as they were real hand-me-downs then, but are tailor-made now. What does the average farm hand get now? If he is a single man, $22.00 to $26.00 per month and horse and buggy furnished him in most cases. If a married man, $1.00 a day, garden, a cow and one or two hogs for his meat, all of which is right. But my fellow laborer, isn't it best to let well enough alone?

Did you ever know the Democratic party to legislate for the laboring man? Did they ever pass a pension bill for the soldier? Did they ever help to remove the mortgage from your little farm? Why, Gov. Marshall framed a new constitution during the last session of the Legislature between the hours of 12 and 3 a.m., and not one article of that great document favored the manufacturer or his employees, the farmer or his employees, the producer or the consumer. All this Bull Moose and Progressivism came about by what is known as bossism. Why, Roosevelt is the greatest boss the Republican party ever had. Two years ago Mr. Beveridge controlled the State convention. A vote for Wilson is a vote to endorse the most formidable boss this country has ever known, Mr. Bryan. For sixteen years he has controlled every National convention held by the Democratic party.

My words of exhortation are: The farmer and his employees, the manufacturer and his army of laborers, the producer and the consumer, the lawyer and his client, the dissatisfied office-holder and those who would be office-holders, who have been so shamefully, so outrageously mistreated, will do well to gaze upon the old flag once more and ask yourself, "Is it all a dream?"

Respectfully,

Clell Maple.

WOODROW WILSON,

Democratic Candidate for President,

being summoned before the bar of the American people as a witness for and in behalf of the Republican party, was examined and testified as follows:

Question: Did you or did you not, in your History of the American People, refer to the years 1893 to 1896, when the Democratic party was in power, as "THOSE FATAL YEARS OF DEPRESSION"?

Answer: I did.

Question: Did you or did you not describe the terrible conditions in those years in the following language, upon pages 235 and 236 of Volume 5: "A great poverty and depression had come upon the western mining regions and upon the agricultural regions of the west and south," and "Men of the poorer sort were idle everywhere and filled with a sort of despair. All of the larger cities and manufacturing towns teemed with unemployed workmen, who were WITH THE UTMOST DIFFICULTY KEPT FROM STARVATION by the systematic efforts of organized charity?"

Answer: I did.

Question: Did you or did you not, after describing this distress in detail and relating that millions of American gold went across the sea to pay foreign creditors, use these words, on page 263: "NOT UNTIL THE YEAR 1897, WHEN THE REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION CAME IN, DID THE CRISIS SEEM TO BE PAST"?

Answer: I did.

The Republican party asks no better witness against a change from sixteen years of Republican prosperity to four years more of Democratic distress than Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic candidate for president.

later, after three years of Taft, in a speech at Cleveland, declared he had not kept faith with the people.

He then set about to attempt to prove that Taft had broken faith with the people. He alluded to the Ballinger episode and the alleged unfair dealings of Taft's Secretary of Agriculture. He pointed out that Taft was repudiated at the polls in many of the Republican states. He said Taft had made himself especially unpopular with tariff legislation and added that the Democratic party had always maintained the government has no right to legislate so the great corporations can make a certain profit.

Mr. Duncan branded the Payne-Aldrich tariff measure the most burdensome one ever passed, but produced no figures to prove it. He declared Taft threw his influence to the interests and helped pass the bill when he could have caused it to be defeated. He passed briefly over Taft's vetoes in the last congress.

The Democratic party, he declared, is a friend of the laborer and the manufacturer, and believes in amassing any mass of money by honest means. He said the country had prospered in spite of the high tariff, and that the Democrats insist on downward revision. Mr. Duncan asserted that the protective policy had been a downright failure. He declared that in the three most protected industries—steel, wool and cotton—the labor is cheaper than in unprotected industries.

Mr. Duncan recalled that the Republican party agreed that some of the schedules should be reduced, but that the Democrats have not sufficient intelligence to do so. He said his party insisted the G. O. P. had been doing it for almost sixty years and that now it wanted a chance.

Mr. Duncan declared his party would regulate railroads and other corporations and that the party is pledged to establish a department of labor, including a bureau of mines, and to enact an employers' liability law. The re-election of Taft, he stated, means four more years of ill-defined effort. He admitted that the Republican charge in 1908 that the Democratic ranks were broken, and insisted that the Republican's once formidable front was rent asunder.

"The Republican brag," he continued, "that they have made this nation a world power and I cling back at them that before Taft was born, before the web-footed ancestors opened their eyes, the Democratic party had made this a world power. It has sung the funeral dirge over the Whig party and will do the same over many others probably before it reaches the end of its career."

Mr. Duncan paid his respects to all the Democratic candidates. He termed Radston "a consecrated gentleman, who had risen from the masses," Marshall, one "whose brain is a storehouse of Democratic principles," Wilson, "a scholarly gentleman."

SCOUTS CLAIMS OF BULL MOOSE

James E. Watson, in interview at Muncie, Places Them Third in The Race in This State

TAFT SENTIMENT IS GROWING

Republican Who Votes for T. R. Casts Half Vote for Wilson By Default, He Says.

The drift toward Taft, the Republican party and four more years of prosperity set in several weeks ago and is still drifting according to James E. Watson, Indiana's gifted son and one of the foremost political orators of the day, according to the Muncie Press.

Mr. Watson arrived in Muncie yesterday and will deliver an address at the theater in the evening to what was estimated to be one of the biggest Republican gatherings of the year in eastern Indiana. The Press continues:

He was busy at work in his room in the Delaware when the Press man dropped in on him, and was made welcome as another native of Republican Randolph. Watson is looking fine and shows no effects from his strenuous campaigning this fall, although he has toured four states and has visited forty-nine counties in Indiana since the war for prosperity commenced. His voice is as commanding as of yore and he refuses to get a day older.

"There is nothing to this talk about Roosevelt and Beveridge getting more votes than Taft and Durbin in Indiana," said Mr. Watson in response to a query.

"Of course I can't give you any figures, but I have been in many more than half the counties of Indiana, embracing every section of the state, and I am convinced that the bullmoose are going to be greatly disappointed in Indiana the day after the election, if they really have faith in the claims they are putting out."

"In the southern half of the state the Taft and Durbin men greatly outnumber their bullmoose adversaries, in some of the districts as much as five or six to one, in others about two to one."

"The Sixth district, my own home is more evenly divided, but Taft and Durbin have the best of it there. Wayne county is claimed by the progressive as the stronghold of their cause. They may break even with the Republicans there but the other counties of the district will put it into the Taft column."

"The Indianapolis district I know nothing about, but your own district, the Eighth, I am led to believe, has more bullmoose sentiment than any other district in the state. The Twelfth also has considerable Roosevelt sentiment, but taking the state as a whole Taft and Durbin have it on Roosevelt and Beveridge easily."

"People are now beginning to realize that Roosevelt has no chance of being elected, that it will be either Taft or Wilson and this has set them to thinking. As a result the progressive cause is suffering. It must be either Taft or Wilson and it is up to the people to decide whether they want Taft, protection and prosperity or whether they desire to take a chance on Wilson and free trade.

"No third party can win this year. The moose are drawing but little support from the democrats and every Republican who deserts his party for the progressives is simply casting half a vote for Wilson by default."

Watson is so well known in Muncie, having lived near this city most of his life, that he is considered one of the "home boys."

As a result when the word got around that "Jim" had come to town earlier than he was expected the friends of the former whip of the house commenced hunting him up at the Delaware. So Watson was kept busy most of the morning answering raps on his door by cheerily inviting the rappers to come in.

Now it is extremely hard to interview a man when people insist on coming in every minute or two to shake hands with him and talk about old times, but The Press man heard enough from Mr. Watson to convince him that the eloquent Hoosier has the same old faith in the Republican party and believes that its principles must finally prevail either this year or next, because Republicanism and prosperity during the past fifty years have gone hand in hand.

MRS. H. H. BRITTON

St. Louis, Oct. 25.—Roger Bresnahan, who has been discharged as manager of the Cardinal baseball club, will fight in the courts. Mrs. Helene Hathaway Britton, owner of the club, refused to state what the reasons were for Bresnahan's dismissal. The deposed Cardinal leader said he didn't know of any special reason why he was fired except that Mrs. Britton said that she was dissatisfied.

COTTON POOL AND THE SHERMAN LAW

Is the Latter Designed to Control the Former?

Washington, Oct. 25.—The argument submitted on behalf of the government by Solicitor General Bullitt has been concluded and the supreme court has taken under advisement a case that is considered to be one of the most important that has arisen involving a construction of the Sherman anti-trust law. The case was an appeal from the judgment of the federal court for the southern district of New York in what has come to be known as the Cotton Pool case. Certain defendants, James A. Patten and others, were indicted for conspiring to form a combination to buy cotton to an amount in excess of the known crop. The movement was known as a cotton corner to bull prices and reap profits. The government contention raises but one issue. Does a combination of individuals under an agreement to buy up a commodity and enhance the price of the same constitute a criminal conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce under the Sherman anti-trust law?

"For years the people of this country have been trying to find some legal remedy to reach and punish those persons who run corners in a staple product, the effect of which, whether intended or not, is to enhance prices to the consumers," said Solicitor General Bullitt. "We believe we have the remedy in the Sherman law. This is the question we are asking this court to settle for us."

It is because of the unconcealed attempt of the government to use the anti-trust law to break up corners in wheat, cotton and other commodities and, in fact, to put a stop to agreements to purchase, in excess of the known supply, contracts for the future delivery of such products, that interests the present case with so much interest.

MORE LETTERS READ IN COURT

Iron Workers' Personal Communications Brought Out.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT WITNESS

Member of the Seattle Local of the Iron Workers' Union, and For Many Years One of Its Officers, Turns Over to the Government Letters He Had Received From McNamara and Hockin Bearing Upon Trouble.

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—H. W. Pohlman, a member of the iron workers' union at Seattle and for many years one of its officers, was an important witness in the trial of the alleged dynamiters in federal court. Before going on the stand he turned over to the government without protest four letters he had received from J. J. McNamara and H. S. Hockin, and went on the stand to identify these letters. He also identified several letters written by himself and sent to McNamara. Some of this correspondence the government will attempt to connect with plans to dynamite the Lyon building in Seattle, Aug. 31, 1910, when J. B. McNamara went to the coast to begin a wholesale dynamiting program on the coast. Other letters were written after the Los Angeles Times explosion, and in one of Pohlman's letters is some language which the government construes as showing that Pohlman was informing J. J. McNamara that E. A. Clancy was scared on account of the investigation then in progress. In one of the letters to McNamara, after the Times explosion, was a reference which the government will contend refers to Clancy "weakening," after the Times explosion.

"Your fat friend is leaving for the east," says the letter. "You had better put some guys on him," the government interpreting this as meaning McNamara should take steps to "brace up" Clancy.

William H. Nedley of the Fall River (Mass.) police, testified concerning the dynamiting of material for a bridge between Fall River and Somerset. George O'Donnell, a union iron worker, having been indicted in Massachusetts for this "job." The bridge material was dynamited on June 13, 1908. On the following day, according to Nedley, he found O'Donnell at the scene of the explosion. O'Donnell was arrested for assault with intent to commit murder and was convicted, being sent to the state prison at New Bedford. The indictment for the dynamiting is still pending, said Nedley. He said no officer was present to arrest O'Donnell when he left prison about two years ago, after serving his term for assault with intent to murder.

LOST HIS RIGHTS

Man Who Failed to Register Ineligible to Jury Service.

Greenburg, Ind., Oct. 25.—Judge Robert L. Mason in the circuit court ruled informally on the eligibility of Joseph Roberts to sit on the grand jury which is investigating the Hicks-Martin murder case. Judge Mason said there was some doubt in his mind as to the eligibility of Roberts, as he had failed to register on any of the three registration periods, and therefore was not a legal voter. The law requires that a grand juror must be a legal voter. As the grand jury began its work after the last registration and as Mr. Roberts had not qualified to vote, he would not be a legal voter till after the election, according to the opinion of some members of the bar here. Judge Mason, rather than take a chance on invalidating the work of the grand jury, held that Roberts could not serve.

Women Will Practice Voting.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 25.—The women of this city will vote for all offices to be filled at the November election the same as men. Miss Ada Campbell has completed arrangements for holding the election, and while the votes, of course, will not be counted, the women will have the satisfaction of knowing how they voted. The plan is to have every woman in the city express her preference for all office seekers. There will be polling places and challengers will be named for each of the parties having candidates.

Threw Dynamite on Stove.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 25.—William Glaser, aged four, son of Albert Glaser, suffered the loss of his left eye, three fingers and a thumb of his right hand here when he threw a dynamite cap on a stove. The flying metal struck his mother and an older brother and both received deep gashes in the face. William's face was torn to shreds and he was otherwise mangled besides the injuries to his eye and hand. It is believed he will die.

JURY SAYS DEATH FOR LIEUT. BECKER

Found Guilty of First Degree Murder.

New York, Oct. 25.—The verdict of Lieutenant Becker's jury, three minutes before midnight, was "Guilty of murder in the first degree." The jury had been out seven hours and fifty-seven minutes. The convicted man bore up under the shock with the grimness and resolution that had characterized him all through the trial. The only visible appearance of shock was a grayness that spread over his dark face, the narrowing of the fierce eyes and a contraction of the muscles of the throat. Presently when he lifted his right hand and gave oath as to the facts of his age and circumstances, his voice failed him. He could answer the formal questions put to him only in husky tones barely audible a few feet from where he stood at the bar of the court. The wife of the convicted man looked calmly at her husband as he stood at the bar and even summoned a smile for his encouragement. Then she fainted.

It has been said that Mr. Whitman, the chief prosecutor, and Mr. Moss, his assistant, were genuinely astonished at the degree of the verdict. This may not have been the case with the counsel for Lieutenant Becker. They had appeared to be utterly confident, the more so as time went on, but before the words of the foreman fell like triphammer blows upon the nerves of every man and woman who was waiting when the jury came in, Mr. McIntyre made one last desperate effort to get from the jury further consideration for his client. The foreman was almost ready to answer for his followers when Mr. McIntyre arose quickly, lifted a restraining hand and then demanded the attention of the court.

"I ask you honor that before there are any further proceedings the jury be allowed to examine the testimony taken at Hot Springs."

Justice Goff said simply: "I deny the request."

The clerk of the court then addressed himself to Foreman Skinner of the jury, and the verdict was rendered.

THE TURKS LOSE STRATEGIC POINT

Outpost of Adrianople Taken By Bulgars.

MAY OUST ISLAM IN EUROPE

With Ancient Capital Wrested From Turk by Infuriated People of Balkan States, European Turkey Will Have Lost Its Supremacy in That Region and the Next Step Will Be the Division of Its Territory.

London, Oct. 25.—The capture by the Bulgars of the town and Turkish fortress of Kirk-Killesseh, which has been of vast strategic importance in guarding Adrianople, against which the Bulgarians have been directing their attack for the last three days, is told in dispatches received here. The fighting along the fifty-mile front of Bulgars and Turks near Adrianople, is still going on, although dispatches have also been received which state that the Bulgarians have already taken two fortresses close to Adrianople, and are now shelling the town. Both the Turks and the Servians claim tremendous victories in Albania. The Turkish dispatches say that the Turks officially claim to have put the main Servian army to flight. Dispatches from Serbia say that the Servians have captured the town of Kumenova.

The fighting around Kirk-Killesseh was the hottest that the war has yet seen. The increase of the fury of the Bulgarian attack and the Turkish defense is attributed to the development of a flanking movement by the forces of Czar Ferdinand. He designed to take the Turkish forces in the rear, and when his detachment got there they found that the Ottoman rear had been heavily reinforced by troops drawn from the districts where the Servians and the Greeks had been engaging the attention of the Turk. Czar Ferdinand's attempt was made in an effort to take the town of Kirk-Killesseh from the rear. If successful he would place the Turks between two fires and cut off their line of communication with Constantinople. The Turks recognized his move, and their forces were thrown against his flanking army in an effort to stop it. Despite fighting of the most desperate sort, they could not prevent him from capturing Kirk-Killesseh.

Decisive Point in the War.

Military authorities who have been studying the situation agree that the capture of the fortress by the Bulgars may develop to be the most decisive point in the war. They think that the Turks, with Adrianople gone, would be of little power in European Turkey, and that Adrianople cannot stand with Kirk-Killesseh lost to the Bulgarians. The fortress is thirty-five miles to the east of Adrianople.

Its capture routs one position of defense for the Turks and gives the Bulgarians another stronghold in their march toward Constantinople, 100 miles away. The Bulgarians captured 1,200 prisoners, several Krupps and rapid-fire guns, and a quantity of wagons and ammunition. The Turks, after the engagement, began a rapid retreat to Viza, which is seventy-four miles northeast of Constantinople. The Turks themselves officially admit that their troops are retreating. Bulgarian dispatches describe the aftermath of the battle as a rout of the most complete order, fleeing Turks abandoning their heavy guns to travel faster, while the Bulgarians followed and pressed them. The Bulgars now are more than twenty miles inside Turkish territory. Their next attack will be Adrianople, and they are in a position now to attack it from the west, north and northeast. If Adrianople is captured, communication between the Turkish capital and the Turkish armies engaging the Greeks and the Servians in the western part of European Turkey will be cut off. The Greeks report that Riazah Bey's army of 22,000 men, which the Greeks have driven from Serdije, is now facing utter destruction or surrender. The Greeks have backed them against the cliffs of Mount Pierra and now are pressing them from the front, so that the Turks have no alternative but to fight, which means annihilation, or to surrender.

LOCAL TEAM GOING TO CONNERSVILLE

Season Will Close Sunday With Game
at Whitewater Park—Expect
Hard Contest.

WILL BE CALLED AT 2 O'CLOCK

The Rushville base ball team will play the final game of the season Sunday at Connerville. The Connerville team has been going at a fast clip and hopes to take the locals into camp. It is a much faster aggregation than that which met the locals the first of the season. Connerville won one game from Rushville and the locals came back and defeated them, so the game Sunday will be the "rubber."

Scott Cooley or Bud Maxwell will pitch for Connerville while Halterman will be on the mound for Rushville. Because of the fine traction accommodations, a large crowd of local fans will go to Connerville. On account of the cool weather the game will be called at two o'clock.

HONESTY MUST BE USED IN PACKING

Judge of Indiana Apple Show Decries
Custom of Placing Good Fruit
on Top.

URGES GRADING OF APPLES

The eastern and middle-western apple package has long been viewed with disfavor by the buyer. Too often upon opening a package it was found to contain good fruit on top and the wormy, runty culls in the center. The "decouping" of the package has done a great deal to lower the price of Indiana fruit. Honesty in the commercial package must be observed. Properly graded and packed Indiana fruit can favorably compete with the products of the world.

Prof. Van Dorn, who is to judge the 1912 Apple Show, says: "A rule that I put in force at Hood River was that I was going to put a penalty on everything that looked like deception. I would cut off all that should be cut off for lack of coming up to the scratch and then doubled it for deception. I found several cases in that A-No. 1 bon ton apple show and they were severely dealt with. That is what I will do at Indianapolis when I judge there this fall. That is the only way to be right. Be perfectly fair and square with ourselves and the world at large."

This season Indiana has a good crop of apples. Less than one-third of this crop will come from sprayed trees. Grade your fruit closely, pack attractively and the general run of fruit need never come in competition with it. Establish a grade and your fruit sells itself.

OFFICE IS OPEN AT NIGHT

Taxes May be Paid Each Evening
Until November 5.

The days for paying the fall installment of taxes are not many. The last opportunity will come the day before election, a week from next Monday. In order to accommodate men who are too busy throughout the day to visit the county treasurer's office, it will be open every night until the close of taxpaying time from seven until nine o'clock. The office will be closed every afternoon at five o'clock to give the clerks opportunity to straighten up the books each day.

WEDDING BELLS TO TURN TRICK

for 190 days in order that he may be held until the two divorcees are granted.

He promised to marry Mrs. Lingenfelder after she is divorced and to live with her and their four young children after he marries her.

In order to escape prosecution on the bigamy charge, Isaacs and Mrs. Lingenfelder admitted in court that they never had been married. The bigamy charge against Isaacs was dismissed and statutory charges were placed against both. Mrs. Lingenfelder got the same sentence, but judgment was withheld.

Mrs. Lingenfelder will be cared for by charity and will go to Indianapolis hospital in a few days. Until she and Isaacs are married their four children will stay in the Indianapolis orphan's asylum. The court will be notified when the divorcees are granted, and Acting Judge Reagen said Isaacs might be released at that time.

Deputy Prosecutor McCarty, says the Indianapolis News, asked that Isaacs receive the maximum punishment. He said that Isaacs had urged Mrs. Lingenfelder to desert her husband and that his attitude all through was that of a home wrecker.

Lingenfelder's daughter by his first wife was given into the custody of his parents who live in Indianapolis.
